Logan Elm Village New Community Scheduled On Route 23 South of City

Additional plans for the erection of 400 homes along Route 23 south of Circleville were announced today by an official of the South-Central Rural Electric Cooperative, owner of the Miller Development tract where the houses will be constructed.

Goldwater's Delegate Total Passes 800

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Sen. Barry Goldwater loped toward the finish line today in his race for the Republican presidential nomination, so far ahead of Gov. William W. Scranton that he wasn't even winded.

Goldwater's first-ballot vote strength passed the 800 level Tuesday, according to The Associated Press survey. By the time the nominating roll is called tonight the Arizona senator could have many more.

With 655 needed to nominate, Goldwater had 810 votes in the AP poll compared with 168 for Scranton, his nearest challenger.

The survey, based on primary election commitments, instructions, pledges and stated preferences, showed this first-ballot breakdown:

Goldwater	810
Scranton	168
Rockefeller	109
Edwards	44
Smith	20
Favorite sons	112
Uncommitted	45

Goldwater's total included 118 committed by primary elections, 257 by convention instructions, 60 personally pledged and 370 who favor him but are not committed. None of Scranton's votes are pledged or bound.

Goldwater forces looked for a further increase today from the Wisconsin delegation, if it is released by Rep. John W. Byrnes the favorite son. Byrnes was expected to announce his decision at a caucus this morning. Most of the 30 delegates are believed poised to jump on the Goldwater bandwagon.

U. S. Protests Slap by Red

BERLIN (AP)—The U.S. Army says it has lodged a "strong protest" with Soviet authorities over the slapping of an American officer by an East German border guard.

The officer, who was not identified, followed standing instructions and did not retaliate, an Army spokesman said.

The apparently unprovoked incident Sunday outraged American officers in West Berlin.

The Army spokesman said the officer was riding in an Army sedan in East Berlin when an East German border patrol halted him near Checkpoint Charlie.

The patrol told the American and his companions to leave the area. The officer protested that they were not in a restricted area and had not violated any traffic rules. One of the East Germans reached his hand through the car window and struck the officer.

Scranton Is Soundly Trowned In Efforts To Change Platform

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—The Republican convention has soundly trounced three key planks by Gov. William W. Scranton challenging the party platform favored by backers of Sen. Barry Goldwater.

The critical roll-call vote of 897 to 409, rejecting a Scranton civil rights proviso, pointed toward the expected outcome today when the delegates vote directly on whom they want for their presidential nominee.

There was no doubt during three hours of debate and voting Tuesday night that the contest was a preview of today's nomination clash. Scranton has keyed his campaign right along

Ohio Solidly For Barry

Scranton Rights Plank Is Shunned

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Ohio didn't have too many big moments Tuesday in the marathon session of the Republican National Convention, but its biggest one was something of a stunner.

That was when former U.S. Sen. John W. Bricker stood up to cast all 58 Buckeye votes against a proposed change in the GOP civil rights plank of the 1964 platform.

The unanimous vote came at a dramatic moment in the convention's first roll call.

It shot down the hopes of the forces of Pennsylvania Gov. William W. Scranton just a few moments after those hopes had been buoyed by a substantial favorable vote from New York.

The Ohio vote on the first convention roll call was important in three ways:

—It made it plain that Scranton could hope for little or no help from his Ohio neighbors in today's big test for the presidential nomination.

—It made it plain that the Ohioans are satisfied with the civil rights plank as originally written.

—It was a solid vote of confidence in Rep. William McCulloch, veteran Republican congressman for Piqua, Ohio, a chief author and manager of the civil rights bill which recently made its way through Congress and is now on the nation's lawbooks.

The congressman asserted the new federal civil rights bill is the best in a quarter-century.

"There has been a lot of platform talk in demagogic ways in recent years about civil rights, but we finally have something down in writing as the law of the land," he said.

Asked what impelled him to become a civil rights leader from his largely rural western Ohio home base, McCulloch put it simply:

"Just say it's a Scotch-Presbyterian conscience on a moral issue."

Man Is Accused In Stabbing Case

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Homicide detectives report they have learned the identity of a woman found stabbed to death early Monday in the apartment of an East Side man they have charged with murder.

Police say the victim was Mrs. Margaret Green, 54, of Columbus, whose husband told officers he hadn't seen her in several weeks.

Jessie Wallace Lovinood, the man charged, claims he did not know the victim and had never seen her before she stumbled into his apartment only partly clad, stabbed and moaning for help. He summoned police.

He was charged after witnesses told police they saw Lovinood and the woman together about four hours before the body was found.

In carrying to the convention floor motions to broaden the platform's civil rights plank, to denounce alleged extremism and to reaffirm the president's sole control over nuclear weapons, the Pennsylvanian was appealing to the party's court of last resort and hoping some delegates would switch to him.

Brown-Eyed Joyce Sets Milk Mark

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Her name is Joyce. She has brown eyes and a beauty all her own, and Tuesday she became the new all-time, all-ages United States milk champion of the Jersey cow breed.

Joyce—her full name is Chal-lenger's Joyce—is owned by Anthony J. Regli of Green Valley Jersey Farm, Ferndale, Calif.

The executive secretary of the American Jersey Cattle Club here, James Cavanaugh, said Joyce was milked three times a day for 365 days, beginning July 12, 1963.

The milking, supervised by University of California officials produced 26,364 pounds of milk containing 1,200 pounds of butterfat. The previous record-holder, since 1957, Marlu Milady of Marl Farm, Lincroft, N.J., produced 24,619 pounds under similar conditions.

Joyce's record equals 12,262 quarts. Cavanaugh said this would supply a family of five with a quart apiece each day for 80 months.

World Racing Toward End, Cleric Says

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—The world is racing toward its end, evangelist Billy Graham declared Tuesday night as he compared the present with the time just before the Biblical downfall of ancient Israel and the flood which covered the world.

"Not only do I have the word of God that there will be an end but I have the word that Noah never had—the word of the greatest scientists today," Graham told an estimated 30,000, the largest crowd of his 10-day Ohio Crusade, now half over.

He quoted an unidentified scientist as saying it is now possible to destroy all civilization in six hours.

Graham said the Bible says the second coming of Christ and the end of the world will come when things are as they were in the day of Noah. As in that time, he said, there now is much divorce, emphasis on sex, world-wide lawlessness, war, hatred, greed and bitterness.

"The reason God doesn't come in judgment this very night is because he loves you and he is giving you a chance to turn from your sins," he asserted.

Warren Mother Assured of Aid

WARREN, Ohio (AP)—Edsel Crawford, executive secretary of the Child Welfare Board, says he knows of no reason why a Warren woman who left here to stay with her sick husband in Cleveland should fear she would lose her seven children.

The woman, Mrs. Cleland Reel, said she became ineligible for relief when she joined her husband, a patient in the Veterans Administration Hospital. She said she would lose her children in a week unless she received help from welfare officials in Cleveland.

Crawford said that when Reel entered the hospital, the family became eligible for aid from the Soldiers and Sailors Relief Commission.

New Junkyard Fencing Law Is Curtailed

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—A temporary restraining order has been granted by a common pleas court judge against enforcement of Ohio's new junkyard law in Washington County.

The law went into effect Jan. 1. It says among other things that a junkyard, to be licensed, must be obscured from general view by natural objects or a fence.

The restraining order, granted by Judge Leonard B. Ogle after a hearing Tuesday, stems from the first suit to challenge the law. Walter Lane and Oran Baker, who operate Hilltop Auto Wrecking south of Marietta on Ohio 7, are making the challenge, represented by Cleveland attorney Milton H. Wyner.

Wyner, counsel for the Ohio Auto and Truck Wrecking Association, contends the law is unconstitutional. It is based solely on aesthetic conditions and does not involve public health, safety, morals or welfare, he says.

And, says the attorney, the 1963 legislature discriminated against junkyards in passing it.

First-Ballot Win Coming in Vote Tonight

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Sen. Barry Goldwater galloped a clear road today toward a first ballot Republican nomination. His legions—showing a massive 2 to 1 superiority—crushed last ditch attacks on his position.

They confidently beat down Tuesday night all efforts of Pennsylvania Gov. William W. Scranton's forces to nail change to the platform the Arizona conservative intends to run on against President Lyndon B. Johnson this fall.

Now, with the convention's big prize to be awarded tonight and virtually in his pocket, Goldwater appeared to have little more to do than polish his acceptance speech, choose his running mate and consider efforts to unite the party under his pennant.

The unity theme was sounded by both former President Dwight D. Eisenhower and Richard M. Nixon, who are moving to act as peacemakers.

Most significant of the platform battles Tuesday night was the 897-409 vote by which the delegates rejected a Scranton-backed proposal to amend a plank which promised implementation and execution of the Civil Rights Act—a plank Goldwater foes have denounced as weak.

Sen. Hugh Scott, R-Pa., acted for Scranton in what could only be regarded as a last-gasp effort to provide some oxygen for the governor's fast-expiring challenge to Goldwater for the presidential nomination.

Scott proposed a substitute which would have added a pledge for enforcement of the new law—against which Goldwater voted—by an increased Justice Department staff. It also proposed invoking the 14th Amendment to reduce congressional representation of states which disenfranchise some citizens to vote.

The vote by which delegates batted down this proposal seemed to indicate that when they get around to choosing their nominee tonight Goldwater might exceed the necessary 655 count before the first call of the states even was completed.

An Associated Press survey showed that Goldwater headed into nomination day with 810 votes while Scranton had 168. (Continued on page 8)

Mrs. Smith To Lose but Make History

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—For the first time in the history of any major party, the name of a woman will be placed in nomination today for president of the United States.

It will be Sen. Margaret Chase Smith of Maine, who has no chance at all. Her known delegate strength: 20 out of the 1,308 delegates to the Republican National Convention.

Nevertheless, Mrs. Smith, 66, has had a convention hotel headquarters like all the other presidential hopefuls, and committees for Margaret Chase Smith are buttonholing delegates and planning a floor demonstration in her behalf.

Sen. George D. Aiken of Vermont will nominate his neighbor, longtime friend and Senate colleague. Among those who will second the nomination will be Maine's governor, John H. Reed.

Although no major party ever put in the name of a woman for the presidential race, there were two women in minor parties who tried to make it on their own, almost a century ago.

In 1872, Victoria Claflin Woodhull ran for the National Radical Reformers. In 1884 and 1888, Belva Ann Lockwood, a Washington lawyer, was the nominee of the National Equal Rights party.

Republicans Cheer as Ike Launches Attack on Press

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—An attack on the press by former President Dwight D. Eisenhower evoked one of the most feverish, spontaneous demonstrations at the Republican National Convention Tuesday night.

The demonstration came during a convention session that also saw the removal of John Chancellor, a correspondent for the National Broadcasting Co., from the floor of the Cow Palace.

During his address to the convention, Eisenhower urged Republicans to "scorn the divisive efforts of those outside our family, including sensation-seeking columnists and commentators, who couldn't care less about the good of our party."

This brought a roar of applause and pulled cheering delegates to their feet. There were shouts of "More, more."

But Eisenhower did not elaborate, and he did not name the columnists and commentators he had in mind.

Chancellor was escorted from the floor by police after he refused to clear the aisles.

The correspondent was interviewing members of the Alaska delegation when a sergeant-at-arms asked him to leave. Chancellor refused, and police removed him.

The incident was viewed by millions for Chancellor covered it on television as he was taken from the Cow Palace.

Later, Chancellor was allowed to come back into the convention hall, and he interviewed the sergeant-at-arms who had ordered him to leave. They shook hands after the interview.

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—A temporary restraining order has been granted by a common pleas court judge against enforcement of Ohio's new junkyard law in Washington County.

The law went into effect Jan. 1. It says among other things that a junkyard, to be licensed, must be obscured from general view by natural objects or a fence.

The restraining order, granted by Judge Leonard B. Ogle after a hearing Tuesday, stems from the first suit to challenge the law. Walter Lane and Oran Baker, who operate Hilltop Auto Wrecking south of Marietta on Ohio 7, are making the challenge, represented by Cleveland attorney Milton H. Wyner.

Wyner, counsel for the Ohio Auto and Truck Wrecking Association, contends the law is unconstitutional. It is based solely on aesthetic conditions and does not involve public health, safety, morals or welfare, he says.

And, says the attorney the 1963 legislature discriminated against junkyards in passing it.

Warren Mother Assured of Aid

WARREN, Ohio (AP)—Edsel Crawford, executive secretary of the Child Welfare Board, says he knows of no reason why a Warren woman who left here to stay with her sick husband in Cleveland should fear she would lose her seven children.

The woman, Mrs. Cleland Reel, said she became ineligible for relief when she joined her husband, a patient in the Veterans Administration Hospital. She said she would lose her children in a week unless she received help from welfare officials in Cleveland.

Crawford said that when Reel entered the hospital, the family became eligible for aid from the Soldiers and Sailors Relief Commission.

3-Satellite Launch Delayed until Friday

CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (AP)—Technical problems forced postponement today of an attempt to launch three satellites into orbit to lay the groundwork for a space network intended to police the limited nuclear test-ban treaty.

The Air Force tentatively rescheduled the launching of the Atlas agenda booster rocket for Friday.

Cuban Fishing Boats Due To Carry Guards

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—One of the last avenues of escape from Communist Cuba—fishing boats—may be sealed off by a new regulation requiring guards to accompany fishermen, a newly arrived exile said today.

The refugee Gilberto Hernandez, 23, said he and seven companions fled in a fishing boat shortly before the decree became effective.

Mississippi's Holdout Ends

2 School Systems Plan Integration

JACKSON, Miss. (AP)—Two school boards have submitted plans to a federal judge to desegregate first grade classrooms in the fall, signaling the end of Mississippi's holdout as the last state without school integration below the college level.

A third board was expected to join the school systems of Jackson and Biloxi today in telling U.S. Dist. Judge Sidney Mize how it would obey his desegregation orders.

"We have our plan in hand," said John T. Loggan Jr., superintendent of rural Leake County. "We are all set."

Leake County is the birthplace of former Gov. Ross R. Barnett, who twice physically blocked Negro James H. Meredith from enrolling at the University of Mississippi in 1962.

When Meredith finally arrived on the Ole Miss campus at Oxford to register, a turmoil erupted. Two persons were killed and several hundred were injured.

Judge Mize, 75, a native Mississippian, had given the school boards of Jackson, Biloxi and Leake County until today to submit plans for desegregation.

The Jackson and Biloxi boards filed their plans a day early. They were identical.

Another Mississippi city, Clarksdale in the heavily Negro populated delta region is under federal court orders to submit a desegregation plan within 15 days.

Argentina's Quints Note 21st Birthday

BUENOS AIRES (AP)—Argentina's Diligenti quintuplets celebrated their 21st birthday today on three continents—outside the glare of publicity they have shunned all their lives.

Their father, millionaire industrialist Franco Diligenti, has kept the two boys and three girls out of the limelight and separated since they were seven years old.

Maria Fernanda and Maria Esther live in Buenos Aires, the city where they were born July 15, 1943. Both are married; Maria Fernanda has two daughters, Maria Esther one.

Carlos Alberto, a law student, and Franco Jr., an engineering student, are at the University of Vancouver. Both have part-time summer jobs—at $3 an hour—in the Canadian Pacific port as waiters.

Maria Cristina lives in Rome with an older sister.

Franco Sr., the father of eight children and the grandfather of 10, said the boys wrote him from Vancouver recently that they were doing well. "Franco wrote that he will be going to Rome in about 20 days' time to visit his sister," the father said.

Diligenti came to Argentina from Milan, Italy, in 1922 when he was 22 and built a complex of 10 factories manufacturing a variety of products. He was wealthy enough to reject all commercial attempts to exploit.

Diligenti once said he had to break up the quintas at age 7 and send them to separate English boarding schools.

"They had too much team spirit," he said. "They ganged up on you."

Jackson Iron Firm Sold to Clevelanders

CLEVELAND (AP)—The stock of Jackson Iron & Steel Co., Jackson, Ohio, has been purchased by Harold C. Schott of Cleveland and Associates.

The cash purchase was announced here Tuesday, but the price was not disclosed. The acquisition includes coal properties and other lands in the Jackson area.

Jackson Iron & Steel, in business more than 50 years, has an annual sales volume of approximately $7.5 million.

The furnace of the Jackson plant was rebuilt and modernized recently at a cost of $5 million. The annual pig iron output of the furnace is about 100,000 tons.

The Cleveland buyers said there would be no change in company personnel of 150 employees. The firm's sales policy also will be unchanged, they said.

Parties To Be Probed WASHINGTON (AP)—The extent to which defense contractors provide parties, gifts and other special activities for their employees at government expense will be studied at a public hearing next week by the House Armed Services subcommittee.

2 The Circleville Herald, Wed. July 15, 1964

Teaching Staffs Near Completion

Teaching staffs for Circleville public schools are to be completed this week for the fall term, according to a report submitted to the Board of Education last night by Superintendent Fritz Jacobs.

Jacobs told the school board that only two vacancies exist at the moment and they are to be filled this week after final interviews. They are seventh grade English and high school history and government. The latter vacancy came as the result of a resignation by Philip Simon.

Two new teachers were employed during last night's session. They are Mrs. Freda Corcoran, Williamsport, for an elementary position. She is a graduate of Ohio State University and has four years experience; Paul Dunkle, McArthur, was hired to teach elementary music classes. He is a graduate of the University of Cincinnati.

Dropouts are on the decline in city schools, according to Superintendent Jacobs who presented a summary of the situation to the board. He noted that there were seven less dropouts for the 1963-64 term compared to 1962-63.

HE said that during the last school year there were a total of 50 dropouts in grades 8-12 and only two of the students were under 16 years of age.

More than half of the students had quit school because they were over 18 years of age or secured working permits.

A discussion concerning the establishment of a school savings program for students was tabled until the August meeting for further study. Jack Russell, representing School Thrift Inc., appeared before the school board with the proposal. The board advised Russell he would have to contact all Circleville banks to determine their interest and desire to participate in the savings program for students.

Rod List, a substitute bus driver, was employed as a regular fulltime driver pending official resignation of a currently employed driver who had indicated he was going to resign.

In other action taken by the school board, a plan was authorized to provide wind shield stickers to students who will be driving cars to school this fall. The stickers will be sold to the students for a nominal fee—probably five cents, Jacobs said.

The board was advised that the summer school program this year consisted of two courses—typing and driver education. Thirty-one students are enrolled in the typing class and 19 are enrolled for driver training.

Elementary Band Has 171 Members

A total of 171 students from Ashville - Harrison, Scioto and Walnut Twp. elementary schools are enrolled in the Teays Valley summer band program, according to William Pangburn, band director.

Junior bandmen at each of the three schools rehearse once a week for 1½ hours while older cadet bandmen rehearse once a week for two hours.

Fifth young bandmen also are enrolled in a once-a-week 20-minute beginner percussion class. The cadet band is scheduled to appear Saturday in the Teays Valley parade which starts at 4 p. m. Other scheduled appearances for the Cadet Band are Commercial Point Homecoming, Pickaway County Fair and the Ohio State Fair.

Pravda Calls GOP Platform Aggressive

MOSCOW (AP)—Pravda today called the Republican party platform "one of the most aggressive and reactionary documents of our times."

The Soviet Communist party organ and most other Moscow newspapers attacked Sen. Barry Goldwater and the supporters of his candidacy for the Republican presidential nomination.

Pravda said the platform was "written in keeping with the cannibalistic philosophy of the 'wild man' senator."

"The program, in essence, calls for war with the Soviet Union, open intervention against Cuba and the stepping up of the war in Viet Nam," it declared.

"In the field of domestic policy, Goldwater's program opens wide the door for racists and fascists and cancels many of the democratic achievements of the American people."

Armco Plant Is Struck

ASHLAND, Ky. (AP)—A strike at the Ashland works of Armco Steel Corp. halted production today and idled 4,400 workers.

Picket lines went up Tuesday night reportedly because of a dispute over a "bonus situation." There was no elaboration on the nature of the dispute.

President John F. Gillum of Local 1865 of the United Steelworkers of America called the walkout unauthorized and said, "we are doing everything we possibly can to get the men back to their jobs."

Company spokesmen said furnaces at the plant were being banked. It takes about 48 hours to bank a blast furnace and 10 to 12 hours for an open hearth furnace. The time required to fire them up again depends on how long they are shut down, the spokesmen said.

African Summit Snubs Tshombe

CAIRO (AP)—Premier Moise Tshombe of the Congo, due here by Thursday for an African summit conference, has been told he isn't wanted.

Foreign ministers of the African nations at a meeting Tuesday decided to inform Congolese President Joseph Kasavubu that Tshombe's presence would be "undesirable."

The decision at a two-hour secret meeting was not unanimous. Nigeria and several other nations opposed it. Ghana, Algeria and Uganda led the fight against the former secessionist leader of Katanga province who returned from self-exile to head a new Congolese government.

Girl's Switchblade Knife Is Okd; Attacker Indicted

NEW YORK (AP)—A Queens grand jury skirted the Sullivan Law today and refused to indict Arlene Del Fava for carrying the outlawed switchblade knife she used to slash off a would-be rapist.

Both the judge and the district attorney applauded the unanimous decision by the 22 men on the panel.

The jurors, however, handed up an indictment against the raven-haired secretary's alleged attacker, Harold Modell charging him with attempted rape.

2 Fostorians Accused in Shooting Case

POSTORIA, Ohio (AP)—Two Fostoria men were charged today with shooting with intent to kill or wound in the death Sunday of Frank Ramirez, 28, of Fostoria.

City Prosecutor Fred Echelbarger filed the charges against Ervin McBeth, 38, and James Ferguson, 46. Both were wounded in the early morning shooting on Culbertson Street. McBeth was to be released from the hospital today while Ferguson is recovering from two broken ribs.

Police said both men admitted firing revolvers, which were found near the scene. It has not been determined what caused the shooting or if Ramirez was involved, police said.

Police Capt. Louis Stagger left today for the Criminal Bureau at London, Ohio, with bullets taken from both guns and a fragment which killed Ramirez when it struck him in the head. Police said Ramirez did not have a weapon.

Police picked up Ferguson and McBeth at the scene of the shooting.

Red Ambush Fatal to 17

SAIGON South Viet Nam (AP)—A Communist Viet Cong battalion ambushed a Vietnamese government truck convoy rumbling into a mountain valley Tuesday, killing 17 and wounding 21. It was the second major ambush in two days.

On Monday three American officers and 16 Vietnamese were killed north of Saigon in an ambush.

No Americans were with the latest Vietnamese convoy, heading from Tam Ky near South Viet Nam's northeast coast toward the mountain valley of Phuoc Chau when it was hit.

The ambush was further indication that the Communists are increasing their effort in that area. A U.S. military spokesman said Viet Cong activity there "has shifted its center of gravity from the mountains to the coastal area."

Government Spending Runs Below Estimate

WASHINGTON (AP)—The government spent less during the fiscal year which ended June 30 than the $98.3 billion dollars which was the last official estimate. Budget Director Kermit Gordon informed President Johnson. He didn't tell newsmen how much less.

To a question, he said it "might be a good assumption" that the budget deficit also will be smaller than the last estimate, which was $8.8 billion.

Mississippi's Holdout Ends

2 School Systems Plan Integration

JACKSON, Miss. (AP)—Two school boards have submitted plans to a federal judge to desegregate first grade classrooms in the fall, signaling the end of Mississippi's holdout as the last state without school integration below the college level.

A third board was expected to join the school systems of Jackson and Biloxi today in telling U.S. Dist. Judge Sidney Mize how it would obey his desegregation orders.

"We have our plan in hand," said John T. Logan Jr., superintendent of rural Leake County. "We are all set."

Leake County is the birthplace of former Gov. Ross R. Barnett, who twice physically blocked Negro James H. Meredith from enrolling at the University of Mississippi in 1962.

When Meredith finally arrived on the Ole Miss campus at Oxford to register, a turmoil erupted. Two persons were killed and several hundred were injured.

Judge Mize, 75, a native Mississippian, had given the school boards of Jackson, Biloxi and Leake County until today to submit plans for desegregation.

The Jackson and Biloxi boards filed their plans a day early. They were identical.

Another Mississippi city, Clarksdale in the heavily Negro populated delta region is under federal court orders to submit a desegregation plan within 15 days.

Argentina's Quints Note 21st Birthday

BUENOS AIRES (AP)—Argentina's Diligent quintuplets celebrated their 21st birthday today on three continents—outside the glare of publicity they have shunned all their lives.

Their father, millionaire industrialist Franco Diligent, has kept the two boys and three girls out of the limelight and separated since they were seven years old.

Maria Fernanda and Maria Esther live in Buenos Aires, the city where they were born July 15, 1943. Both are married; Maria Fernanda has two daughters, Maria Esther one.

Carlos Alberto, a law student, and Franco Jr., an engineering student, are at the University of Vancouver. Both have part-time summer jobs—at $3 an hour—in the Canadian Pacific port as waiters.

Maria Cristina lives in Rome with an older sister.

Franco Sr., the father of eight children and the grandfather of 10, said the boys wrote him from Vancouver recently that they were doing well. "Franco wrote that he will be going to Rome in about 20 days' time to visit his sister," the father said.

Diligent came to Argentina from Milan, Italy, in 1922 when he was 22 and built a complex of 10 factories manufacturing a variety of products. He was wealthy enough to reject all commercial attempts to exploit.

Diligent once said he had to break up the quintuplets at age 7 and send them to separate English boarding schools.

"They had too much team spirit," he said. "They ganged up on you."

Jackson Iron Firm Sold to Clevelanders

CLEVELAND (AP)—The stock of Jackson Iron & Steel Co., Jackson Ohio, has been purchased by Harold C. Schott of Cleveland and Associates.

The cash purchase was announced here Tuesday, but the price was not disclosed. The acquisition includes coal properties and other lands in the Jackson area.

Jackson Iron & Steel, in business more than 50 years, has an annual sales volume of approximately $7.5 million.

The furnace of the Jackson plant was rebuilt and modernized recently at a cost of $5 million. The annual pig iron output of the furnace is about 100,000 tons.

The Cleveland buyers said there would be no change in company personnel of 150 employees. The firm's sales policy also will be unchanged, they said.

Parties To Be Probed

WASHINGTON (AP)—The extent to which defense contractors provide parties, gifts and other special activities for their employees at government expense will be studied at a public hearing next week by the House Armed Services subcommittee.

Teaching Staffs Near Completion

Teaching staffs for Circleville public schools are to be completed this week for the fall term, according to a report submitted to the Board of Education last night by Superintendent Fritz Jacobs.

Jacobs told the school board that only two vacancies exist at the moment and they are to be filled this week after final interviews. They are seventh grade English and high school history and government. The latter vacancy came as the result of a resignation by Philip Simon.

Two new teachers were employed during last night's session. They are Mrs. Freda Corcoran, Williamsport, for an elementary position. She is a graduate of Ohio State University and has four years experience; Paul Dunkle, McArthur, was hired to teach elementary music classes. He is a graduate of the University of Cincinnati.

Dropouts are on the decline in city schools, according to Superintendent Jacobs who presented a summary of the situation to the board. He noted that there were seven less dropouts for the 1963-64 term compared to 1962-63.

HE said that during the last school year there were a total of 50 dropouts in grades 8-12 and only two of the students were under 16 years of age. More than half of the students had quit school because they were over 18 years of age or secured working permits.

A discussion concerning the establishment of a school savings program for students was tabled until the August meeting for further study. Jack Russell, representing School Thrift Inc., appeared before the school board with the proposal. The board advised Russell he would have to contact all Circleville banks to determine their interest and desire to participate in the savings program for students.

Rod List, a substitute bus driver, was employed as a regular fulltime driver pending official resignation of a currently employed driver who had indicated he was going to resign.

In other action taken by the school board, a plan was authorized to provide windshield stickers to students who will be driving cars to school this fall. The stickers will be sold to the students for a nominal fee—probably five cents, Jacobs said.

The board was advised that the summer school program this year consisted of two courses—typing and driver education. Thirty-one students are enrolled in the typing class and 19 are enrolled for driver training.

Barbara Jo Wood, Clarksburg, has been admitted to Chillicothe Hospital.

Mrs. Alma D. Noyes, Elsiea Trailer Court, is a patient in University Hospital, Columbus. She is in room 608.

Mrs. William G. Koch, Route 2, is a medical patient in Mercy Hospital, Columbus. She is in room 273.

Elementary Band Has 171 Members

A total of 171 students from Ashville - Harrison, Scioto and Walnut Twp. elementary schools are enrolled in the Teays Valley summer band program, according to William Pangburn, band director.

Junior bandmen at each of the three schools rehearse once a week for 1½ hours while older cadet bandmen rehearse once a week for two hours.

Fifth young bandmen also are enrolled in a once-a-week 20-minute beginner percussion class. The cadet band is scheduled to appear Saturday in the Grove City parade which starts at 4 p. m. Other scheduled appearances for the Cadet Band are Commercial Point Homecoming, Pickaway County Fair and the Ohio State Fair.

Deaths

MR. JACOB W. SCHIESER
Mr. Jacob W. Schieser, 80, Route 1, Lockbourne, died yesterday afternoon in Grant Hospital, Columbus.

He was born Feb. 2, 1884, in Grove City the son of Bonifacio and Christina Trapp Schieser.

Mr. Schieser was a member of Our Mother of Sorrows Church, St. Joseph's Cemetery.

Surviving are his widow, Blanche; two daughters, Mrs. Louise Leatherwood, Ashville; Mrs. Esther McBride, Columbus; four grandchildren; two brothers; John H. Lockbourne; George, Groveport.

Services will be 10:30 a. m. Friday in Our Mother of Sorrows Church with Father Patrick Griffin officiating. Rosary will be said 8 p. m. Thursday. Burial will be in St. Joseph's Cemetery.

Friends may call at the Bastian Funeral Home, Ashville, beginning 7 p. m. today.

Pravda Calls GOP Platform Aggressive

MOSCOW (AP)—Pravda today called the Republican party platform "one of the most aggressive and reactionary documents of our times."

The Soviet Communist party organ and most other Moscow newspapers attacked Sen. Barry Goldwater and the supporters of his candidacy for the Republican presidential nomination.

Pravda said the platform was "written in keeping with the cannibalistic philosophy of the 'wild man' senator."

"The program, in essence, calls for war with the Soviet Union, open intervention against Cuba and the stepping up of the war in Viet Nam," it declared. "In the field of domestic policy, Goldwater's program opens wide the door for racists and fascists and cancels many of the democratic achievements of the American people."

Armco Plant Is Struck

ASHLAND, Ky. (AP)—A strike at the Ashland works of Armco Steel Corp. halted production today and idled 4,400 workers.

Picket lines went up Tuesday night reportedly because of a dispute over a "bonus situation." There was no elaboration on the nature of the dispute.

President John F. Gillum of Local 1865 of the United Steelworkers of America called the walkout unauthorized and said, "we are doing everything we possibly can to get the men back to their jobs."

Company spokesmen said furnaces at the plant were being banked. It takes about 48 hours to bank a blast furnace and 10 to 12 hours for an open hearth furnace. The time required to fire them up again depends on how long they are shut down, the spokesman said.

African Summit Snubs Tshombe

CAIRO (AP)—Premier Moise Tshombe of the Congo, due here by Thursday for an African summit conference, has been told he isn't wanted.

Foreign ministers of the African nations at a meeting Tuesday decided to inform Congolese President Joseph Kasavubu that Tshombe's presence would be "undesirable."

The decision at a two-hour secret meeting was not unanimous. Nigeria and several other nations opposed it. Ghana, Algeria and Uganda led the fight against the former secessionist leader of Katanga province who returned from self-exile to head a new Congolese government.

Girl's Switchblade Knife Is Okd; Attacker Indicted

NEW YORK (AP)—A Queens grand jury skirted the Sullivan Law today and refused to indict Arlene Del Fava for carrying the outlawed switchblade knife she used to slash off a would-be rapist.

Both the judge and the district attorney applauded the unanimous decision by the 22 men on the panel.

The jurors, however, handed up an indictment against the raven-haired secretary's alleged attacker, Harold Modell charging him with attempted rape.

2 Fostorians Accused in Shooting Case

POSTORIA, Ohio (AP)—Two Fostoria men were charged today with shooting with intent to kill or wound in the death Sunday of Frank Ramirez, 28, of Fostoria.

City Prosecutor Fred Echelbarger filed the charges against Ervin McBeth, 38, and James Ferguson, 46. Both were wounded in the early morning shooting on Culbertson Street. McBeth was to be released from the hospital today while Ferguson is recovering from two broken ribs.

The alleged assailant was arrested at a hospital where he had gone for treatment of wounds in the back and side.

Before testifying, Miss Del Fava told newsmen:

"It's an unpleasant thing to have to stab someone, but I think I did the right thing. 'I would do it again to defend my honor and my life.' 'I think every woman should carry something to protect herself in this city.'"

A 20-year-old sailor home on leave, Modell, also of Forest Hills, has been charged with assault and attempted rape of Miss Del Fava. He is in military custody after recovering from stab wounds.

Police said both men admitted firing revolvers, which were found near the scene. It has not been determined what caused the shooting or if Ramirez was involved, police said.

Police picked up Ferguson and McBeth at the scene of the shooting.

Vote Irregularity Probe Continuing

CLEVELAND (AP)—Secretary of State Ted W. Brown says his examiners, who reported finding 50 probable voting irregularities in five East Side wards, will continue their investigation the rest of the week.

Brown said Tuesday that ward-hopping and use of Democrats as Republican booth officials were among irregularities uncovered.

Ward-hopping, Brown noted, "is done in large communities such as Cuyahoga County, and voters, in many cases, are unaware of any violation of election laws." These are voters who live in one community but vote in another.

Body of Farmer, 71, Found in Rural Pond

PORTSMOUTH, Ohio (AP)—The body of Herbert Willis, 71, was found by his wife Tuesday in a pond on his farm near South Webster, 18, miles northeast of here.

The coroner's office said pending an investigation there was no word as to how he met death.

Supreme Court Justice Joseph M. Conroy immediately tossed out the charge against Miss Del Fava. The judge termed the jury's decision "an exercise of good judgment."

Queens Dist. Atty. Frank O'Connor agreed:

"I think the grand jury has done the right thing. They spoke for the community and I think the community in general supported this girl. We checked her out thoroughly and she is a reputable and decent girl who defended herself from attack."

Police reluctantly filed the anti-weapons law charge after the 27-year-old secretary to a New York University professor after the pre-dawn street incident near her home in Forest Hills 10 days ago.

The section of the Sullivan Law for which she was arrested flatly outlawed switchblade knives, no matter what intent is involved in their possession.

Miss Del Fava admitted plunging the knife into the man when he tackled her at 1:30 a.m. July 5 after trailing her on a rooftop. But her arrest sparked an angry public reaction.

The alleged assailant was arrested at a hospital where he had gone for treatment of wounds in the back and side.

Before testifying, Miss Del Fava told newsmen:

"It's an unpleasant thing to have to stab someone, but I think I did the right thing. 'I would do it again to defend my honor and my life.' 'I think every woman should carry something to protect herself in this city.'"

A 20-year-old sailor home on leave, Modell, also of Forest Hills, has been charged with assault and attempted rape of Miss Del Fava. He is in military custody after recovering from stab wounds.

Red Ambush Fatal to 17

SAIGON South Viet Nam (AP)—A Communist Viet Cong battalion ambushed a Vietnamese government truck convoy rumbling into a mountain valley Tuesday, killing 17 and wounding 21. It was the second major ambush in two days.

On Monday three American officers and 16 Vietnamese were killed north of Saigon in an ambush.

No Americans were with the latest Vietnamese convoy, heading from Tam Ky near South Viet Nam's northeast coast toward the mountain valley of Phuoc Chau when it was hit.

The ambush was further indication that the Communists are increasing their effort in that area. A U.S. military spokesman said Viet Cong activity there "has shifted its center of gravity from the mountains to the coastal area."

Government Spending Runs Below Estimate

WASHINGTON (AP)—The government spent less during the fiscal year which ended June 30 than the $88.3 billion dollars which was the last official estimate. Budget Director Kermit Gordon informed President Johnson. He didn't tell newsmen how much less.

To a question, he said it "might be a good assumption" that the budget deficit also will be smaller than the last estimate, which was $8.8 billion.

Encroaching Population

Now that a large segment of the population takes off for some favorite haunt each weekend, it is worthwhile reflecting on the plight of future generations. How will the sons and daughters find the solitude of an out-of-the-way corner of woods, or the cooling enjoyment of a swim in a lake—or the simple quiet of a cabin in the country — tomorrow?

Some, of course, will say, "who cares, we're enjoying it, aren't we?" but a majority of weekend sojourners have already thought about the future. How many times have you come upon what you like to fancy is your own little haven from the world and wondered how the natural beauty of the spot will escape the destruction of encroaching civilization.

Removing lands from private ownership and converting them into parks is only a temporary solution. While the population increase is not limited, the available land is. Those who have traveled through some of the more celebrated national parks in recent years often missed the scenic beauty because of the congestion and traffic hazards.

Yellowstone Park, most popular of the national parks, is an example. Filled with the wonders of nature, including abundant wildlife, geysers, majestic woodland and almost unlimited acreage. Yellowstone also offers its hundreds of thousands of visitors each year congested highways, crowded accommodations and all the other discomforts which come with too many people.

The scenic enjoyment remains in the parks and playgrounds, but the solitude is largely gone. Since rest and relaxation are at least the ostensible reasons for weekend jaunts, how long will the vacationer continue to go where everyone else goes?

Leisure time is expanding with increasing living standards. All trends point to much more free time in the next generation. And men will find ways of using it.

But the manner in which they employ their leisure in the years ahead could differ radically from fun pursuit of today. One imaginative inventor has suggested a vacation room, in which aromas of various exotic places titillate the nostrils of the vacationer while moving picture panels covering entire walls lure him into thinking he is there and automatic temperature controls and even gently rolling floors give him the sensory impressions he would have on the spot.

Some people might like to do it themselves, even if it did mean falling over like-minded "escapists."

Try and Stop Me

By BENNETT CERF

A YOUNG GIRL who got a job in a bakery was telling her mother of her first day's experience there. "They put me to work taking stock of all the cakes that were left and I just couldn't spell meringue." "What did you do?" asked the sympathetic mother. The girl explained, "Well, there were only seven left, so I ate them."

A prominent conservationist haranguing a university audience, rasped, "I venture a guess that there isn't a person in this hall who has done one thing to conserve our forests." A voice from the rear interrupted, "There certainly is. I once shot a woodpecker."

The island of Barbados, new favorite of winter tourists, is the most easterly of the West Indian islands, and now only five hours by jet from New York, although when you get there you're in another world entirely—something like rural England must have been fifty or sixty years ago.

The Portuguese, notes Novelist Wolf Mankowitz, named the island when they visited there in 1536. Then the British arrived in 1625 and took possession of the figs, pines, and mosquitoes they found there. The fig trees and the mosquitoes are now almost extinct, but the pork remains excellent—and as for the climate and the swimming—this correspondent can testify that there's nothing finer!

Serving as Backdrop

The full cost of keeping the peace force on Cyprus will not be known until the United Nations presents its accounting. Britain, which has the largest contingent, has warned that if some progress is not made toward a settlement it will pull out.

The whole affair is a political stage, brightly lit, on which Makarios is the star performer. There is more than a suspicion that the whole Cyprus affair is a two-bit demonstration of fanaticism of the kind that is all too common these days. If the UN is to live up to its name as a peace-making body, it should settle this business satisfactorily.

It is part of modern idiocy that fanatics and rabble-rousers are listened to with respect and that otherwise sane and mature people run around trying to soothe inferiority complexes and to change or adjust that which is unalterable.

All that is needed in Cyprus is a little good will on both sides and a sincere desire for peace and order. Without this the UN force will remain indefinitely supported by the money of people far away who have no real interest in the affair, even if they know what it is about, which is doubtful.

The UN force was invited by the government of Cyprus to help keep the peace. Now peacekeeping forces are spat upon and insulted by the very people who invited them and whose fanatical factions she is helping to hold apart.

It is time to inject a little sanity into the treatment of such affairs as Cyprus and to start considering seriously how long the UN can continue to act as a backdrop before which political fanatics perform to their heart's content.

Price of Dreams Goes Up

By Hal Boyle

NEW YORK (AP)—Sidewalk comments of a pavement Plato: The price of dreaming is going up, up, up! It costs much more to dream now than it used to.

Inflation, that bane of our workaday life, has now also invaded the world of the imagination in which, through fantasy, we achieve all our goals.

To get what he wants from his dreams, a daydreamer finds he must spend much more mythical money than did the daydreamer of a generation ago.

This is true of both kids and adults.

As a child, I dreamed of finding a nickel, a dime, or—in a really expansive mood—a quarter. To dream of finding a quarter was to spend a wild afternoon in Valhalla.

That gigantic sum would buy five big sticks of penny licorice, a nickel ice cream cone, a nickel sack of popcorn, and a dime ticket to the Saturday afternoon movie.

To a modern child, being actually given a quarter is hardly a dream situation. It wouldn't get him very far. To spend a delirious afternoon such as I dreamed of in childhood he'd have to have well over a dollar.

Grownup dreams are getting even more high-priced. This doesn't bother some people. They are spendthrift dreamers. They are printing-press-money dreamers. Whatever they dream they'd like to have or do, they dream up the money to buy it—and never mind the cost.

For years my dream goal was to live like a millionaire. To do this I figured I'd have a small steam yacht for world travel, a penthouse on Park Avenue, a well-staffed mansion in the country, a racing stable, a hideaway villa on the French Riviera, a couple of limousines, a few racing cars.

Naturally, there'd be a dozen or so servants around. A man can get awfully tired of opening his own champagne bottles day after day.

Well, it was a lovely dream and it kept me happy for years. But now it is smashed to smithereens. I made the mistake of confiding my dream to a friend who is expert in tax and financial matters.

"How much money do you think it would take you to live the way you think a millionaire lives?" he asked.

"Why, a million dollars," I replied.

He laughed. "You must be kidding. Anybody with only a million dollars who tried to live like that would wind up panhandling on the Bowery in less than six months."

"You'll have to upgrade your dreams. What you need is $25 million to $50 million—and even then you might have to cut down on your racing stable, and keep your yacht in drydock part of the year."

He left me crushed. Who at my age wants to have a suddenly boost his dream fortune from a million dollars to $25 million or so? It is hard to do. It isn't worth it.

Somebody is always taking the fun out of life. And inflation is taking a lot of the fun out of dreaming. A fellow can hardly afford it anymore.

Beyond the Batting

By John Chamberlain

SAN FRANCISCO — The people at this convention who think they know how the balloting will go are already looking beyond the balloting.

What they see is a tremendous series of question marks that could, if the breaks come, be turned into a Republican victory in November.

A California pro who is candid enough about discussing the possible white "backlash" vote, providing his name be withheld, is quite certain that Lyndon Johnson, though his popularity in the polls is fantastically high, could have the fight of his life on the Pacific coast.

"In the southern California counties," he says, "There's a lot of re-registering going on. There are Democrats who are crossing over into the Republican party. What is significant about this is that you don't have to re-register to vote in November. It's just an act of conscious affirmation or purpose."

"And why? If it could be the referendum vote on the Rumford Fair Housing Act. This act has made it illegal to refuse selling or renting to anybody on grounds of race. A lot of people who are anti-discrimination in most things think a man ought to be able to sell or rent his house any way he pleases. Now, I can't see any Democrat who would go to the polls to protest the housing legislation putting his vote on the line for Lyndon Johnson."

It just wouldn't be consistent. And you must remember that a million signatures, Democratic as well as Republican, got the proposition to conduct a referendum on the act accepted."

The chances for a surprise in California are no more tantalizing than the chances for big switches in the eleven states of the south. In some of these states Republicanism has come to stay no matter who the Republican candidate for president may be. In other parts of Dixie the party is a Goldwater party, pure and simple. Everything in lower Dixie could be confused, of course, if Governor Wallace of Alabama insists on going through with his 1964 version of the old Dixiecrat third party strategy. But newly minted Republicans like Charlton Lyon of Shreveport, La., who quit the Democrats back in 1960 and went on to get forty per cent of the state vote for the office of Governor on a Republican ticket, is certain that his part of the south will be two-party country no matter what happens in San Francisco. Des Barry of Houston, Texas, another man who got "sick and tired" of being a democrat in Texas, is equally emphatic. Moreover, he sees redistricting as helping the Republicans in certain crucial areas of Texas.

This matter of redistricting is, of course, two-edged. But the uncertainty that it has caused is taken here as a good Republican harbinger. Mr. Barry may be right about the lift redistricting could give to his chances in Texas' Harris County. However, in other parts of the country, where the effect of redistricting presents an enigmatic face, the Republicans are counting on gaining presidential votes merely because of a general sense of uneasiness created by the probability of future gerrymandering of voting districts under Democratic auspices. After all, the order to redistrict is blamed on an ultra-liberal Supreme Court. It is perfectly true that Chief Justice Earl Warren was an Eisenhower appointee. But the Democratic party gets the onus for Supreme Court action nonetheless. The reasoning here is that the chief business of the court in recent years has been the validating of new deal, fair deal and generally ultra-liberal legislation.

With redistricting causing psychological upsets and with housing propositions causing a white backlash even among those who think the negro should be fully protected in the right to vote and the right to use any public facilities that taxpayers support or have a clear right to regulate, Republicans have caught a promising whiff in the breeze. It may be a delusion fostered by the invigorating ocean winds that drift over this peninsula city from the Pacific.

But when the question marks are stacked up they may mean something that the popularity polls don't catch. The question, "Do you prefer Johnson to Goldwater — or to Scranton — or to any other Republican?" Gets one answer. But if the questioning were to be reformulated to read, "Do you prefer Johnson's attitude on a fair housing act to you - know - who's?" It might provoke an entirely different response. In the voting booths next fall people will not only be at war over presidential personalities. They will be fighting over ideas and attitudes — and who knows where the pendulum will come to rest?

NEW YORK (AP)—Many of the nation's leading bankers are in New York this week to tackle the problem of one kind of flood control. That's the handling of personal checks, which have nearly doubled in number in the last 10 years. The outpouring is expected to double again in the next 10.

Standardization has pretty well licked today's problem. You probably know it as that funny looking printing at the bottom of your checks.

But will more automation be needed to keep tomorrow's flood from engulfing the banks? That's what more than 1,000 bank executives—some from 24 other countries—are debating at the American Bankers Association's national automation conference.

Even bankers are impressed by the figures. When standardization efforts started in 1954, this nation's banks had 47 million checking accounts and what they then thought was quite a paper mountain of eight billion checks a year.

Today they have 63 million accounts and an annual check turnover of 15 billion. About 90 per cent of all bills are paid that way. Before this decade is over Americans may well be writing 28 billion checks a year.

The ABA estimates that 700 commercial banks now have data processing systems, mostly to handle checks. To this some banks have added computers in the last four years to run herd on savings, installment credit and mortgage accounts.

But on the standardization problem almost all of the 14,000 banks, acting through the ABA, turned to industry experts, such as engineers, computer technicians, printers and government officials. They used the facilities of the American Standardization Association to work out automated check handling.

They developed two technical tools: magnetic ink character recognition—MICR—and the odd-shaped numbers at the bottom of your check known as E13-B.

This is how it works: The E13B system uses the basic digits of zero to nine, plus four special control symbols for the bank's application. When the bank prints your personal check, special ink imprints your account number on the bank draft in these digits and symbols.

When your check is cashed, it passes under electronic sensing equipment. An electric charge magnetizes the ink, the check is automatically read for the account number, the amount of money involved, and the bank on which it is drawn. Where banks have computers available, these then sort, list, and post the checks at the rate of thousands a minute.

The E13B numbering system has spread to such things as credit cards, invoices, traveler's checks, even office records. There is now talk of adopting a global standard for worldwide banking.

But this week the bankers are talking even farther into the future. At the meeting they are hearing of the wonders to come — the day when their customers would have their pay automatically deposited in the bank by the employer, and withdrawn electronically by merchants honoring customers' credit cards.

That could chip away at what bankers see as an ever-growing mountain of personal checks, billions and ever more billions of them.

Speaking of YOUR HEALTH...

By LESTER L. COLEMAN, M.D.

My son is 14 years old. When we went on a hunting trip, he hurt his leg. The doctor found that the leg injury was minor but that he has a curvature of the spine which needs correction. Could a slight leg injury have caused this condition of the spine?

Mr. L. V. Minnesota
Dear Mr. V.: Since it takes years for the spine to become distorted, it is hardly likely that the injury you describe could be responsible for the curvature of the spine.

This condition can sometimes remain unnoticed for long periods of time and is often discovered only incidentally during a routine examination. There are many different causes of curvature of the spine. Before any treatment is begun, the exact cause must be carefully determined.

Present-day techniques of X-ray examination, supported by clinical, neurological and orthopedic findings, are useful in discovering the cause and determining the ideal course of treatment for each individual case.

In this instance, your son's minor leg injury could be considered a fortunate mishap, since it "accidentally" drew attention to a more serious condition which can now be corrected without further delay. Whenever I complain of any pain or discomfort, my husband and my 24-year-old daughter think I am a hypochondriac and always say it is "psychosomatic." Aren't there any real pains any more?

Mrs. E.P., Texas
Dear Mrs. P.: The term "psychosomatic" has unfortunately been bandied about and misused by many who do not know its real meaning and its significance.

Unquestionably, there are some psychosomatic aspects to all disease, because the mind (psyche) and the body (soma) are a unity and cannot be separated from each other. Therefore physical illness, pain or discomfort often affects the emotional state of patients, to varying degrees.

It is unfair, however, to disparagingly label your complaints as having no basis in fact. The diagnosis of real psychosomatic illness is a complex one. It requires as much expert knowledge as the diagnosis of a heart or lung condition.

"Psychosomatic" is an adjective that must not be used carelessly to suggest fraudulence, faking or malingering of disease.

Vallejo, President Johnson presses a key (left) on a table in the White House Cabinet Room in Washington. The key signaled a Navy Yard welder to burn the Chief Executive's personal LBJ brand into the keel at Vallejo, Calif. (right).

Encroaching Population

Now that a large segment of the population takes off for some favorite haunt each weekend, it is worthwhile reflecting on the plight of future generations. How will the sons and daughters find the solitude of an out-of-the-way corner of woods, or the cooling enjoyment of a swim in a lake—or the simple quiet of a cabin in the country—tomorrow?

Some, of course, will say, "who cares, we're enjoying it, aren't we?" but a majority of weekend sojourners have already thought about the future. How many times have you come upon what you like to fancy is your own little haven from the world and wondered how the natural beauty of the spot will escape the destruction of encroaching civilization.

Removing lands from private ownership and converting them into parks is only a temporary solution. While the population increase is not limited, the available land is. Those who have traveled through some of the more celebrated national parks in recent years often missed the scenic beauty because of the congestion and traffic hazards.

Yellowstone Park, most popular of the national parks, is an example. Filled with the wonders of nature, including abundant wildlife, geysers, majestic woodland and almost unlimited acreage. Yellowstone also offers its hundreds of thousands of visitors each year congested highways, crowded accommodations and all the other discomforts which come with too many people.

The scenic enjoyment remains in the parks and playgrounds, but the solitude is largely gone. Since rest and relaxation are at least the ostensible reasons for weekend jaunts, how long will the vacationer continue to go where everyone else goes?

Leisure time is expanding with increasing living standards. All trends point to much more free time in the next generation. And men will find ways of using it.

But the manner in which they employ their leisure in the years ahead could differ radically from fun pursuit of today. One imaginative inventor has suggested a vacation room, in which aromas of various exotic places titillate the nostrils of the vacationer while moving picture panels covering entire walls lure him into thinking he is there and automatic temperature controls and even gently rolling floors give him the sensory impressions he would have on the spot.

Some people might like to do it themselves, even if it did mean falling over like-minded "escapists."

Serving as Backdrop

The full cost of keeping the peace force on Cyprus will not be known until the United Nations presents its accounting. Britain, which has the largest contingent, has warned that if some progress is not made toward a settlement it will pull out.

The whole affair is a political stage, brightly lit, on which Makarios is the star performer. There is more than a suspicion that the whole Cyprus affair is a two-bit demonstration of fanaticism of the kind that is all too common these days. If the UN is to live up to its name as a peace-making body, it should settle this business satisfactorily.

It is part of modern idiocy that fanatics and rabble-rousers are listened to with respect and that otherwise sane and mature people run around trying to soothe inferiority complexes and to change or adjust that which is unalterable.

All that is needed in Cyprus is a little good will on both sides and a sincere desire for peace and order. Without this the UN force will remain indefinitely supported by the money of people far away who have no real interest in the affair, even if they know what it is about, which is doubtful.

The UN force was invited by the government of Cyprus to help keep the peace. Now peacekeeping forces are spat upon and insulted by the very people who invited them and whose fanatical factions she is helping to hold apart.

It is time to inject a little sanity into the treatment of such affairs as Cyprus and to start considering seriously how long the UN can continue to act as a backdrop before which political fanatics perform to their heart's content.

Price of Dreams Goes Up

To get what he wants from his dreams, a daydreamer finds he must spend much more mythical money than did the daydreamer of a generation ago.

This is true of both kids and adults.

As a child, I dreamed of finding a nickel, a dime, or—in a really expansive mood—a quarter. To dream of finding a quarter was to spend a wild afternoon in Valhalla.

That gigantic sum would buy five big sticks of penny licorice, a nickel ice cream cone, a nickel sack of popcorn, and a dime ticket to the Saturday afternoon movie.

To a modern child, being actually given a quarter is hardly a dream situation. It wouldn't get him very far. To spend a delicious afternoon such as I dreamed of in childhood he'd have to have well over a dollar.

Grownup dreams are getting even more high-priced. This doesn't bother some people. They are spendthrift dreamers. They are printing-press-money dreamers. Whatever they dream they'd like to have or do, they dream up the money to buy it—and never mind the cost.

For years my dream goal was to live like a millionaire.

To do this I figured I'd have a small steam yacht for world travel, a penthouse on Park Avenue, a well-staffed mansion in the country, a racing stable, a hideaway villa on the French Riviera, a couple of limousines, a few racing cars.

Then the British arrived in 1625 and took possession of the figs, pigs, and mosquitoes they found there. Cleveland Election Probe Brought to Halt

CLEVELAND (AP) — Cuyahoga County Prosecutor John T. Corrigan has halted an investigation into $700 in contributions allegedly made to the 1962 election campaign of State Sen. Ray T. Miller Jr. of Cleveland.

Corrigan said he discovered that election offenses covered by the Ohio Revised Code must be prosecuted within a year after they allegedly occur.

How One Yank Died in Viet Nam

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP)—When Maj. Charles L. Kelly flew his helicopter down to the Mekong River delta seven months ago, he told everyone he met: "We fly anywhere, any time."

This curt phrase, delivered flatly in a Georgia drawl, and his rigorous adherence to it, weaved an aura around the tough, slightly built major.

Kelly, from Sylvania, Ga., flew an ambulance helicopter with bright red crosses painted on its sides. He didn't carry a gun but a medical bag which he sometimes opened to help out hard-pressed doctors flying with him into battle areas.

He was carrying this bag

when he flew into a hamlet in Ving Long.

It was within reach when he died there.

Kelly commanded the 57th U.S. Medical Detachment, a unit charged with flying wounded and dead out of combat zones.

When Kelly, a decorated veteran of World War II, took over the unit it operated only in the day time. But 12 hours of daylight was not enough for Kelly. After arguing with his superior officers he was able to confidently begin saying: "We fly anywhere, any time."

This took Kelly, 40, to every corner of the delta where battles were fought.

Kelly was aware of the dangers he took. Every day he was witness to the inevitable result of battle, the wounded and the dead. This seemed to strengthen his resolve to do all he could to help.

He insisted on flying at night in a helicopter. "This way we don't have to carry lights, and can move undetected," he said. More than once he landed his ship by flashlight, flickering it on the ground as he landed.

Often at night, radio operators in distant posts would hear crackling over the radio: "This is ole Dustoff (Kelly's code name). Just passing over. Everything O.K.?"

The call Kelly took at his base July 1 was a routine one. A U.S. adviser had been wounded by a Communist mortar round and needed immediate evacuation.

Kelly arrived over the location in Ving Long Province and steered his helicopter toward a landing. There had been no Communist fire for some time but as he came in the Communists opened up on his red cross-marked ship with heavy volleys of small arms fire.

"Dustoff, Dustoff," the radio urged. "Take off, take off, small arms fire."

Kelly, maneuvering in for a landing, replied firmly, "I'll move when I have the wounded with me."

They were his last words. A bullet hit him in the chest, killing him instantly. The helicop-

Elderly Negro Asks Hearing Before GOP

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—An elderly Memphis Negro said he will take his battle for a seat on the Tennessee delegation to the Republican National Convention floor tonight.

George W. Lee, 67, made the statement after the credentials committee rejected by a vote of 66-19 his claim that Republicans in the state's 9th District have discriminated against him and arbitrarily changed the rules governing selection of GOP delegates.

Lee's appeal, if he makes it, will come tonight when the credentials committee makes its report to the convention.

Pertinent New Hints for Easier Ironing

By ELEANOR ROSS

At first glance, a box of salt, wax paper and a card file have little to do with ironing. But they do have a connection, as we discovered on viewing a recent short film with new and pertinent ironing hints.

Most women rate ironing and pressing high on the list of disliked, even detested household chores. While there's no way to eliminate ironing entirely, there are a few things that can be done to make the job easier.

To begin with, it's well worthwhile to have an adjustable ironing board, so you can sit down to iron if you wish. If you'd rather stand, it is important to adjust the board to the right height to make ironing less fatiguing.

The board should be well padded with a cover chemically treated to resist scorching or burning. It should fit tightly to avoid wrinkling and should be sponged off with cold water every third or fourth time it is used.

Today's irons are greatly improved over those made 10 years ago. They are lighter, faster to use and the heat is distributed more evenly.

While the body of the iron is made of stainless steel, the sole plate is aluminum and can be scratched. Because of this, a press cloth should always be used to avoid contact with metallic items such as buckles, buttons, snaps or zippers. This cannot be overemphasized.

When the iron is not being used, place it upright on the heel end.

It is important to turn the dial to the "off" position and pull the plug before the iron is left unattended, even for a moment. Hands must be dry and the plug itself gripped and pulled, never just yank the cord. If any kind of deposit such as starch collects on the sole plate, it can be removed simply by sliding it over salt while the iron is hot.

To make the plate smooth, run it over waxed paper then remove the excess wax by ironing over a cloth.

Modern irons have settings for all fibers, natural and man-made. If the wrong setting is used, the fabric can be damaged. Many times this damage is not visible to the naked eye, but a too-hot iron will eventually change the surface texture of both natural and synthetic fibers. Even before the fabric shows visible damage, sewing threads may disintegrate and the seams pull apart.

Manufacturers' instructions on the care of fabrics are provided with just about every garment purchased. Maintaining a card file of these instructions will insure proper care. Mark each tag with a brief description of the garment.

For blended fibers, set the dial for the fiber that requires the lowest temperature setting.

If the iron does not have a dial, press all synthetics with a warm, not hot, iron. If the fiber in a garment is not identified, test the iron on some hidden spot, such as the seam on the inside of the hem. Press on the wrong side.

In fact, every garment should be pressed on the wrong side to avoid shine.

If pressed on the outside, use a press cloth, such as cheesecloth. If a damp cloth is needed — for use with a dry iron — wring it as dry as possible. It should be damp, not wet.

DEAR ABBY: My husband got a post card from the post office asking him if he wanted to KEEP his post office box. I never knew he HAD a post office box, so I asked him a few questions, such as, why he needed a post office box.

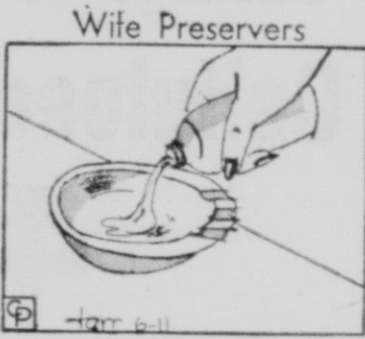

His answers didn't make much sense so I knew he was hiding something. I finally got it out of him that he had met a young woman while he was away on a business trip last year. He said there was nothing serious between them, they just wanted to correspond with each other. He said she was a "nice"

OES Chapter Observes 3rd Birthday

Lockbourne Chapter No. 575, OES, celebrated its third birthday Sunday with a pot-luck dinner held in the Masonic Temple, Lockbourne.

Martha Sawyer, worthy matron, introduced Jerry C. Rasor, TV entertainer and member of Lockbourne Chapter, who acted as master of ceremonies. "The Legend of Lockbourne," a history of the chapter in poetic form, was read followed by remarks from the honored guests and officers.

William O. Dunlap, past grand patron, his wife and son, Billy, of Utica, were honored guests. Mr. Dunlap, who was also observing his birthday was presented a decorated cake by Hazel Hudson, past matron. Homemade ice cream was also served.

TEAR DISILLUSIONED: Invite him in tonight. You have both suffered long enough.

DEAR ABBY: My mother-in-law has the habit of saying, "Our son's this and our son's that." The house is Robert's, the children are Robert's, and everything is Robert's. I heard her telling a neighbor about "Robert's Wedding", so I stepped in and said "Excuse me, Mother dear, but MY father paid for it." Then she laughed and said, "Yes, but Robert has been paying ever since." I am sick of hearing references to Robert alone, as though he had no wife, that I was just about ready to give him back to her. What can I do about a situation like this?

Clean Medicine Chest Properly

By ELEANOR ROSS

Sometimes it takes time to save time.

This is particularly true of a job that is too often postponed or never tackled at all — cleaning the medicine chest.

Taking time for a good clean-up, which should also involve a thorough throw-out, will result in well-organized storage space for good health and grooming. Finding things right away saves endless searching time and annoyance.

To do the job properly, first remove every single item from the medicine chest, including the shelves. While the shelves are soaking in a good detergent bath, clean the interior with a good disinfectant and get at the exterior and the mirror with one of the new aerosol glass and metal cleaners that are so easy to use.

Sort things carefully, reading the label on every bottle containing a prescription. If it is over six months old, throw it out, unless your physician has specifically advised that it be kept.

Adjust the top shelf for small bottles and containers especially prescription drugs which should be kept furthest from the reach of children. Rearrange other items carefully, grouping cosmetic aids and grooming items on one shelf and medicinals such as a proprietary item on another.

After cleaning and re-arranging, make a list of needed replacements.

Look into the new medicine chest products in aerosol containers such as spray-on bandages, spray room deodorants, useful for children's sick rooms, and analgesics.

These items seem to keep longer in their push button containers, probably because no air can get to them.

If your house has more than one medicine chest, don't forget that duplicates of such items as bandages and antiseptics are wise precautions. The downstairs medicine chest is often the first one to be reached after a skinned knee or burnt hand, not to mention more serious mishaps.

In this connection, a special kitchen "medicine chest" is useful to hold the new aerosols for burns and bandages. And be sure to keep them, as with all medicines, on a high shelf, away from high heat and small children.

When you grate a lemon or orange for rind, use a light touch so as to remove only the outer yellow skin.

Death Toll Increases on Ohio Tollroad

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — A dark cloud overshadows an otherwise excellent period for Ohio's Turnpike Commission.

There has been an ominous increase in fatal accidents on the 241-mile east-west toll road.

Discussion of the death rate was the only pessimistic note in Tuesday's commission meeting, the last until Sept. 8. Chairman James W. Shocknessy noted that the 16 killed in the first six months of this year equaled the death toll for all of 1963.

And he expressed additional concern with the news that there have been two more turnpike traffic deaths since the first of this month.

"The answer I do not know," he said, citing engineering factors of the road and other safety precautions taken. "Human beings have to do something about protecting themselves."

Cost Reduction Week Booked by Pentagon

WASHINGTON (AP)—Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara has thrown the spotlight on the Pentagon's economy drive by designating next week as "Defense Cost Reduction Week."

The defense secretary said Monday that major aims were to reward those who helped the department save $2.5 billion in the fiscal year that ended June 30 and to focus attention on the goal of saving $4.6 billion.

Phone Rate Hike OK'd

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—The Utilities Commission has given the Fort Jennings Telephone Co. approval to raise its rates to 345 subscribers in Putnam County. The increase will amount to between 50 cents and $2 monthly, depending on the type of service.

Kennedy Half Dollar 'Bargain' Is Offered

ALBUQUERQUE, N.M. (AP) —The coin shortage is so severe in Albuquerque that one bank is advertising a bargain on the new Kennedy half dollar in an effort to beef up the supply.

The First National Bank of Albuquerque said it was selling the new 50 cent pieces for 49 cents each with a limit of six per customer.

The only catch was that the purchase price must be paid in pennies and nickels.

If any kind of deposit such as starch collects on the sole plate, it can be removed simply by sliding it over salt while the iron is hot.

To make the plate smooth, run it over waxed paper then remove the excess wax by ironing over a cloth.

Modern irons have settings for all fibers, natural and man-made. If the wrong setting is used, the fabric can be damaged. Many times this damage is not visible to the naked eye, but a too-hot iron will eventually change the surface texture of both natural and synthetic fibers. Even before the fabric shows visible damage, sewing threads may disintegrate and the seams pull apart.

Manufacturers' instructions on the care of fabrics are provided with just about every garment purchased. Maintaining a card file of these instructions will insure proper care. Mark each tag with a brief description of the garment.

For blended fibers, set the dial for the fiber that requires the lowest temperature setting.

If the iron does not have a dial, press all synthetics with a warm, not hot, iron. If the fiber in a garment is not identified, test the iron on some hidden spot, such as the seam on the inside of the hem. Press on the wrong side.

In fact, every garment should be pressed on the wrong side to avoid shine.

If pressed on the outside, use a press cloth, such as cheese cloth. If a damp cloth is needed — for use with a dry iron — wring it as dry as possible. It should be damp, not wet.

Dear Abby: End the Treatment, Lady

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: My husband got a post card from the post office asking him if he wanted to KEEP his post office box. I never knew he HAD a post office box, so I asked him a few questions, such as, why he needed a post office box.

His answers didn't make much sense so I knew he was hiding something. I finally got it out of him that he had met a young woman while he was away on a business trip last year. He said there was nothing serious between them, they just wanted to correspond with each other. He said she was a "nice" girl who was married, but not happily. He promised he would never write to her again. He has really tried awfully hard to make it up to me ever since. Abby, Divorce is not in my vocabulary, and I really love the guy. How much longer should I make him sleep on the couch?

DEAR ABBY: My mother-in-law has the habit of saying, "Our son's this and our son's that." The house is Robert's, the children are Robert's, and everything is Robert's. I heard her telling a neighbor about "Robert's Wedding", so I stepped in and said "Excuse me, Mother dear, but MY father paid for it." Then she laughed and said, "Yes, but Robert has been paying ever since." I am sick of hearing references to Robert alone, as though he had no wife, that I was just about ready to give him back to her. What can I do about a situation like this?

DEAR ABBY: I am a 33-year old man with a better-than-average education. All my friends are married and I have been looking for a wife. I have gone with any number of fine young women who have had all the qualities I desire in a wife, but the moment they show interest in me I lose all interest in them. Is there something wrong with me? There is an old saying, "The fruit at the top of the tree — beyond one's reach — is always the sweetest." Why is this so, and what does one do about it?

DEAR JOHN: You'd be wise to cultivate a taste for the fruit within your reach. It's as sweet as the fruit at the top of the tree, but apparently you don't really want it — and you enjoy reaching.

CONFIDENTIAL TO ALAN: It isn't necessary to blow out the other fellow's candle in order to make your own shine brightly.

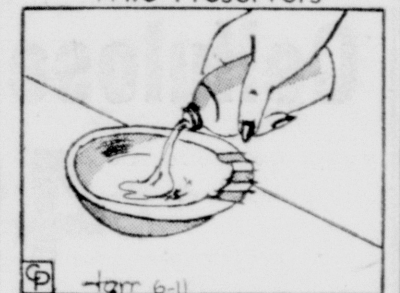

OES Chapter Observes 3rd Birthday

Lockbourne Chapter No. 575, OES, celebrated its third birthday Sunday with a pot-luck dinner held in the Masonic Temple, Lockbourne.

Martha Sawyer, worthy matron, introduced Jerry C. Rasor, TV entertainer and member of Lockbourne Chapter, who acted as master of ceremonies. "The Legend of Lockbourne", a history of the chapter in poetic form, was read followed by remarks from the honored guests and officers.

William O. Dunlap, past grand patron, his wife and son, Billy, of Utica, were honored guests. Mr. Dunlap, who was also observing his birthday was presented a decorated cake by Hazel Hudson, past matron. Home-made ice cream was also served.

Clean Medicine Chest Properly

By ELEANOR ROSS

Sometimes it takes time to save time.

This is particularly true of a job that is too often postponed or never tackled at all — cleaning the medicine chest.

Taking time for a good clean-up, which should also involve a thorough throw-out, will result in well-organized storage space for good health and grooming. Finding things right away saves endless searching time and annoyance.

To do the job properly, first remove every single item from the medicine chest, including the shelves. While the shelves are soaking in a good detergent bath, clean the interior with a good disinfectant and get at the exterior and the mirror with one of the new aerosol glass and metal cleaners that are so easy to use.

Sort things carefully, reading the label on every bottle containing a prescription. If it is over six months old, throw it out, unless your physician has specifically advised that it be kept.

Adjust the top shelf for small bottles and containers especially prescription drugs which should be kept furthest from the reach of children. Rearrange other items carefully, grouping cosmetic aids and grooming items on one shelf and medicinals such as a proprietary item on another.

After cleaning and re-arranging, make a list of needed replacements.

Look into the new medicine chest products in aerosol containers such as spray-on band-aids, spray room deodorants, useful for children's sick rooms, and analgesics.

These items seem to keep longer in their push button containers, probably because no air can get to them.

If your house has more than one medicine chest, don't forget that duplicates of such items as bandages and antiseptics are wise precautions. The downstairs medicine chest is often the first one to be reached after a skinned knee or burnt hand, not to mention more serious mishaps.

In this connection, a special kitchen "medicine chest" is useful to hold the new aerosols for burns and bandages. And be sure to keep them, as with all medicines, on a high shelf, away from high heat and small children.

When you grate a lemon or orange for rind, use a light touch so as to remove only the outer yellow skin.

Death Toll Increases on Ohio Tollroad

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — A dark cloud overshadows an otherwise excellent period for Ohio's Turnpike Commission.

There has been an ominous increase in fatal accidents on the 241-mile east-west toll road. Discussion of the death rate was the only pessimistic note in Tuesday's commission meeting, the last until Sept. 8. Chairman James W. Shocknessy noted that the 16 killed in the first six months of this year equaled the death toll for all of 1963.

And he expressed additional concern with the news that there have been two more turnpike traffic deaths since the first of this month.

"The answer I do not know," he said, citing engineering factors of the road and other safety precautions taken. "Human beings have to do something about protecting themselves."

Cost Reduction Week Booked by Pentagon

WASHINGTON (AP)—Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara has thrown the spotlight on the Pentagon's economy drive by designating next week as "Defense Cost Reduction Week."

The defense secretary said Monday that major aims were to reward those who helped the department save $2.5 billion in the fiscal year that ended June 30 and to focus attention on the goal of saving $4.6 billion.

Phone Rate Hike OK'd

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—The Utilities Commission has given the Fort Jennings Telephone Co. approval to raise its rates to 345 subscribers in Putnam County. The increase will amount to between 50 cents and $2 monthly, depending on the type of service.

Chocolate coated peppermint-flavored wafers may be melted with a little water and used as a sauce for ice cream.

FASHIONABLE TOPPERS — Jackets vary in styling from tailored capes and pique coverups to light frilly organza coats, as shown above. A ruffled collar continues down the front of the feminine coat to form a charming jabot.

Kennedy Half Dollar 'Bargain' Is Offered

ALBUQUERQUE, N.M. (AP) —The coin shortage is so severe in Albuquerque that one bank is advertising a bargain on the new Kennedy half dollar in an effort to beef up the supply. The First National Bank of Albuquerque said it was selling the new 50 cent pieces for 49 cents each with a limit of six per customer. The only catch was that the purchase price must be paid in pennies and nickels.

Ohio Traffic Death Trend Is Studied

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Ohio's Department of Highway Safety released results of a comparison study today showing that nearly as many or more persons lose their lives in shorter weekends that follow summer holidays as do during the longer holiday weekends.

Director Warren C. Nelson said that since, in many cases, the holiday death toll was lower than that of the following weekends, "it proves we have a year-round, all-out educational as well as enforcement problem."

Using the extended Memorial Day, Fourth of July and Labor Day weekends of 1963 the report showed that in each case at least one of the three succeeding weekends showed higher tolls than during the holiday period.

For example, during the four and a quarter day Fourth of July period, 29 traffic fatalities were recorded, but on the two and a quarter weekend following there were 25 deaths. The next weekend produced 33 or more than on the extended holiday period and the following weekend 23 deaths.

All three weekends that followed the three and a quarter day Labor Day weekend last year produced higher traffic death tolls than the 19 who died during the holiday period.

Nelson said "this shows that highway safety, like any other advertising is a product which must be plugged continuously."

Ohio Institutions Urged To Buy Electrical Power

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Ohio would be about $29 million ahead if its institutions purchased additional electric power instead of enlarging generating facilities, a report to Gov. James A. Rhodes said today.

The estimate was based on a half-year study by an administration-appointed committee following a survey of state operations by the "Little Hoover Commission," composed of industrial management experts loaned to the state.

The three-man committee, headed by C. Maynard Turner of the Cincinnati Gas & Electric Co., studied power needs of 54 installations, including state-supported universities, hospitals and correctional institutions.

The committee also advised against establishing a single statewide standard rate per kilowatt-hour for state use of electricity because of increased cost.

Recommendations resulting from a study of steam heating and electric requirements for economy included:

London Correctional Institution to continue to generate and supply its own standby needs.

Lebanon Correctional Institution, Ohio Penitentiary and Ohio

State University use present generating facilities to capacity limits and purchase electricity for future growth and standby needs.

Fourteen institutions to cease generating power and purchase all electricity needed.

Thirty-six other installations to continue purchasing electricity.

Committee members estimated total operating and capital improvement costs for 35 major installations for a 10-year period to 1973 at $119.6 million under present operations.

The cost would be $133.3 million if all electricity was self-generated, figures indicated. But it would be only $107.1 million if power was purchased or generated as recommended, the committee said a potential savings of $26.2 million below self-generation and $12.5 million below present operations.

An indirect benefit of $2.7 million also could be realized in state and local taxes paid by electric suppliers as a result of sales to state institutions, the committee said.

Other members of the governor's Committee on Power Policy were Evan E. Williams of Columbus & Southern Ohio Electric Co. and Paul H. Gravelle of Toledo Edison Co.

JACKIE KENNEDY MOVING TO NEW YORK—Jacqueline Kennedy announced that she and her two children will sell their home (left) in the Georgetown section of Washington and move to New York early in the fall, where they will live in the 34th floor Towers Suite of the Carlyle Hotel (right). Her late husband, President John F. Kennedy, used the suite as headquarters on his trips to New York.

Mrs. John Sabine — YU 3-5731

Mr. and Mrs. Carl Dennis and Carla, Yvonne and Eddie were recent guests at the home of Mr. Robert Dennis and Mr. and Mrs. William Miller. When the Dennis family returned to their home in Plymouth, Mich., Mary Ann Miller accompanied them for a two week visit.

Bill Woodward of Canal Winchester was guest speaker when the Ashville Kiwanis Club met for its July 7 meeting. His topic was "Lighting Through the Ages."

Woodward showed slides of lighting equipment from Cave Men to kerosene lamps. This collection is now on display at the Center of Science Industry in Columbus.

The Speaker for the July 14 meeting was A. E. Swanson. A public relations man, he is associated with the Social Security Program.

Baseball night for the local club is July 22 at Jet Stadium. Tickets may be obtained from Marion Waites. July 28 will be family night. A chicken barbecue has been planned with time and place to be announced later. Members are reminded that reservations may be made at the July 21 meeting.

Nina Moss, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Moss, and Becky Young, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Young, are attending the Senior 4-H Camp at Tar Hollow this week.

Susan Sabine, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Sabine, received a head injury while diving at the swimming pool at Camp Ken-Jockey. Several stitches were required to close the wound. Although under the care of a doctor, she was permitted to remain at the camp.

Mr. and Mrs. Art Mershon, Mrs. Clair Lough and Jack Lemon are members of the Chorus for the Billy Graham Crusade. Mrs. Roy Krieger is helping with the office work and Lemon is acting as a counselor each evening. These people are all members of the United Brethren Church.

The 1939 Class of Ashville High School held its annual picnic July 12 in the Ashville Elementary School. A basket dinner was enjoyed at noon by nine class members and their families. Miss Helen Bowers, a former teacher, also joined the class for the day.

Volley ball and other sports were enjoyed. Attending were Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Swayer and family, West Lafayette; Mr. and Mrs. Bernard (Wimpy) Walden and family, Dunkirk; Mr. and Mrs. Dick Jones and family, Columbus; Paul Nance, Upper Sandusky; Mr. and Mrs.

James Neece and family, Whitehall; Mr. and Mrs. Steve Cook (Dorothy Reid) and family, Mr. and Mrs. Jack Lemon (Kathryn Thompson) and family, Buss Hedges, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Courtwright and family, all of Ashville.

The next reunion will be held the third Sunday in July of 1965 in the Ashville Shelterhouse.

Swimming Lessons will be given at the Ashville Pool beginning July 20. Registrations will be made that morning. Adult classes will start July 13 at the Circleville Pool.

Mr. and Mrs. James Irwin entertained the Indians Baseball team of the Little League Tuesday evening to a pizza party. Irwin is coach of the team.

The Bastian Funeral Home made the following ambulance runs this week: July 8 — Mrs. Hattie Rife returned home from Riverside Methodist Hospital and Mrs. Ira Carpenter, Darbyville, to Riverside Hospital; July 9 — Bill Morrison returned home from Mercy Hospital; July 11 returned Mrs. George Bastian home from Riverside Methodist Hospital.

Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Ward and Andy and Jonie visited this past weekend with Mr. and Mrs. Russell Small and daughter of East Tawas, Mich. Mrs. Alice Purcell who had been visiting the Smalls returned home with the Wards.

Mrs. Cecil Noecker has joined a group of friends from Columbus for a trip around the world.

The Methodist Church Bible School will be held Aug. 3 through 14.

Persons wishing transportation to the Billy Graham Crusade are asked to meet at the United Brethren Church each day at 5:45 p. m. Bus or car transportation will be provided.

The Ashville Girl Scout Neighborhood will meet 7:30 p. m. July 20 in the Methodist Church. All leaders are urged to attend. Final plans for Day Camp will be made.

School Bus Purchasing Plan Delayed

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — After two days of talking, the Ohio Board of Education was unable to take any action on a plan to centralize school bus purchases because of lack of a quorum.

As a resolution recommending adoption of the regulation was being read Tuesday, Robert A. Manchester of Canfield, a critic of the purchase plan, slipped out of the room. His departure left only 14 members of the 23-member board present, one less than the number required for business.

As a result the board was forced to adjourn, leaving until its Sept. 14 meeting action on the controversial plan. There were seven hours of testimony Monday and much of Tuesday's session was devoted to the plan. This was the first two-day meeting the board has held in four years.

The much-debated plan would set a single low bid for purchase of school buses with state funds. Under the present system, school districts eligible to receive funds from the state are governed by a ceiling price established by the Ohio Department of Education.

With the failure to act on the plan, the board authorized State Supt. E. E. Holt to continue to process school bus requests on an emergency basis, as was done during the last school year.

In other matters, several school district transfers were taken up by the board.

New Assignment Listed at Du Pont

James P. Bare, 2760 Shelly Drive, Columbus, has been assigned to manufacturing control foreman at the Circleville Du Pont plant.

Bare joined Du Pont in 1962 following graduation from the University of Wichita where he earned a bachelor of science degree in industrial engineering.

He started as an engineer in the methods section, then served as an engineer in the technical section prior to the new assignment.

SANDUSKY, Ohio (AP)—Mrs. Mildred Polsfuss, 53, of Toledo collapsed and died of a heart attack after getting off the roller coaster at Cedar Point Tuesday, park authorities reported.

First - Ballot ...

Scott, who engineered the losing platform fight said there would be "no turning back" so far as Scranton is concerned. He predicted the governor will go down to the balloting wire, despite the obvious odds against him.

At one point Tuesday, Scranton said: "It isn't so much a question of whether we win as that we demonstrate to all America that there are persons in our party who do feel this way."

Goldwater, commenting through an aide on the developments, said: "The Republican convention is reflecting the conservative majority in the Republican party."

As matters stood, it was the consensus of his associates that Goldwater would tab Rep. William E. Miller of New York, the GOP national chairman, as his vice presidential running mate. Miller had strong support from New England, Illinois, North Carolina, Arkansas and Mississippi delegates.

The Arizona senator was expected to pick Denison Kitchel, his campaign director, as national chairman to succeed Miller.

In a session lasting past midnight, the convention rejected a total of five proposals to amend the platform and delegates draft.

Two amendments dealt with what their sponsors called political extremism, two were in the field of civil rights and a fifth was aimed at Goldwater's suggestion that the North Atlantic Treaty Organization commander be given more supervisory power over the use of small nuclear weapons to repel attack.

The vote on the civil rights plank was immediately met by a long-planned demonstration of civil rights groups. Twenty civil rights demonstrators sat down in the turnstile of the Cow Palace's main exit, forcing the delegates to turn and push their way to side exits.

Police stood close to the demonstrators, and there were no scuffles between the gate blockers or their nearby picketing friends and the delegates. The delegates were able to get out of the Cow Palace through the side exits in 15 minutes.

Mrs. Barry Goldwater, wife of the expected presidential nominee, occupied a front-row box seat at the then-quiet convention while former President Dwight D. Eisenhower addressed the delegates. Eisenhower, given an ovation, urged the Republicans to avoid factional strife and renew their strength "from the fountain of unity."

There was a roar of applause when Eisenhower condemned "sensational-seeking" newspaper columnists and commentators. He urged the delegates to ignore their "divisive efforts."

Responding to cries of "more," Eisenhower described such columnists and commentators as people "who couldn't care less about our party."

Former Vice President Richard M. Nixon, who will introduce the presidential nominee, told a news conference Tuesday that Goldwater had moved "from the status of the senator from Arizona to the position of the nominee of his party—and it could happen tomorrow."

Scranton said that no matter what happens he will support the Republican ticket actively in November.

But he said he doesn't think it would be "helpful to our party" to take second place on the ticket.

Scranton refused to repudiate a savagely worded attack on Goldwater in a letter sent from his headquarters to the Arizona.

"It is true that I did not write it and did not see it and did not sign it," Scranton said. But he added that since it was prepared by his staff "I do not disavow responsibility for that letter."

The letter accused Goldwater of advocating irresponsible actions and his managers of treating convention delegates like "a flock of chickens whose necks will be wrung at will."

JW Members To Attend Meet

Members of the Circleville congregation of Jehovah's Witnesses are making plans to attend a convention scheduled July 30 through Aug. 2 at Jet Stadium, Columbus.

The seminar is one of 63 scheduled in the United States and Canada this summer. The conventions are sponsored by the Watchtower Society of Brooklyn, N. Y.

The public lecture, "Peace Among Men of Good Will or Armageddon—Which?" is the highlight of the conference and will be delivered by F. W. Franz, vice president of the Watchtower Bible and Tract Society.

Bond Sales Listed for May

Pickaway County sales of Series E and H savings bonds for May were $72,419 according to William D. Radcliff, county savings bonds chairman.

Radcliff said the county has attained 49.1 per cent of its yearly sales goal. E and H bond purchases in Pickaway County for the January through May period now total $385,607.

Sales on a state-wide level continued to meet the expected goals for the period ending May 31. Savings bonds purchases in May totaled over $24.4 million giving Ohio an accomplishment of 43.9 per cent of its yearly sales goal. During the first six months of the year, Ohioans purchased $132.4 million.

Radcliff reported that nationally the daily average sales of Series E and H bonds in May were $18.4 million which, except for 1963, were the best in any month of May in eight years.

Parachuteless Chutist Gets Chair in Club

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP)—When Gerald J. Adler landed in a Maine snowbank after hurtling from a jet bomber without a parachute, he had passed the toughest requirements in one of the world's most exclusive groups, the Booster Club.

He qualified by being flung through the air at more than 200 miles per hour in a B52 ejection seat, crashing through pine trees, landing in a five-foot snowbank near Moosehead Lake, Maine, and all with his parachute tucked inside the ejection seat.

Ordinarily, only ejection from a crashing aircraft and living to tell about it were required. All 400 members used parachutes.

When Adler wasn't notified he was a member, he wrote to find out if it was because he hadn't used his parachute.

He learned the Air Force hadn't recorded his extraordinary feat.

The oversight will be remedied tonight at Ellington Air Force Base near Houston when the 32-year-old former navigator receives his membership in the jet-age club.

Adler founded the world by surviving the fall from the disintegrating bomber and withstanding 30-degree below zero temperatures for 24 hours.

His left leg had to be amputated along with all the toes on his right foot.

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP)—When Gerald J. Adler landed in a Maine snowbank after hurtling from a jet bomber without a parachute, he had passed the toughest requirements in one of the world's most exclusive groups, the Booster Club.

He qualified by being flung through the air at more than 200 miles per hour in a B52 ejection seat, crashing through pine trees, landing in a five-foot snowbank near Moosehead Lake, Maine, and all with his parachute tucked inside the ejection seat.

Ordinarily, only ejection from a crashing aircraft and living to tell about it were required. All 400 members used parachutes.

When Adler wasn't notified he was a member, he wrote to find out if it was because he hadn't used his parachute.

He learned the Air Force hadn't recorded his extraordinary feat.

The oversight will be remedied tonight at Ellington Air Force Base near Houston when the 32-year-old former navigator receives his membership in the jet-age club.

Adler astounded the world by surviving the fall from the disintegrating bomber and withstanding 30-degree below zero temperatures for 24 hours.

His left leg had to be amputated along with all the toes on his right foot.

TECHNICAL VAGRANCY—Frank Costello, reputed gambling kingpin, leaves court in New York after being questioned about a suspected bigtime gambling ring. He was picked up on a charge of technical vagrancy after three suspected bookmakers were arrested on charge of failing to purchase the $50 federal gambling tax stamp.

Largest chunk of the measure—$2,677,500,000—is for the Apollo program to place an American on the moon by 1970.

Proponents have called it one of the toughest such acts in any city in the country.

Gary Martin, son of Mrs. Vic Halley, left Friday for Oshkosh, Wis., to live for a time with his uncle and aunt the Rev. and Mrs. Ray Poss. He will complete his senior year in High School there prior to attending college.

Cindy Donahue and Mrs. Halley planned a going away party for him Wednesday evening. A cookout was held on the lawn at the Halley home. The guests presented Gary a piece of luggage.

Present were Sherri and Sueann Knisley, Lois Beavers, Debby Downs, Becky Betz, Judy Sherwood, Vicki Likens, Barbara Shepard, Jeanne Beavers, Jane Ann Sims, Myra and John Ralston, Bob Strausbaugh, Dan Davis, Bob Meadows, Jennifer Mowery, Ronnie Edwards, Ken Russell and Bob Arnold, Ken Russell, Bob Brooks, Jim McVey, Roy Chaffin, Jackie Watts and Cindy and Mard Donahue.

Mrs. J. G. Minser returned Sunday evening after spending a week with a friend, Mrs. Catherine Ingersoll at her country home near Highland.

The Rev. James K. Boor, pastor of the Kingston Methodist Church, will be the minister for both the morning and evening services on July 19 at Lancaster Camp Ground. The hours are 10:30 a. m. and 8 p. m.

Bob Braun of TV fame will present a program the same day at 2:30 p. m.

Curt and Charlotte Davis are at the Camp Ground again this summer. They will present a program on July 26, at 2:30 p. m.

Mr. and Mrs. M. P. Leffingwell returned on Saturday from Missouri where they attended the funeral of Boyd Hood. They visited a few days with relatives, Mrs. Leffingwell's brother and wife, Mr. and Mrs. Frank G. Cook at Joplin, Miss., and Mr. Leffingwell's brother and wife, Mr. and Mrs. Roy Leffingwell, Marionville, Miss.

Mrs. Hood's sister, Mrs. John B. Thomas and son, Steve, returned home with them after visiting with the Hoods.

Martha Wright, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Bill Wright of Charleston, W. Va., is spending her vacation with her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. James Mattinson in Kingston.

Miss Mary Harpster is visiting this week at the home of her sister, Mrs. Althea Reichelderfer in Stoutsville.

Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Reed of Harbor Hills were at their home here for several days this week. Miss Ora Rittenour returned home with them after spending a week as their guest.

Kingston Mixettes 4-H Club had a picnic Monday evening at the home of one of their leaders, Mrs. Marvin Jones. The other leaders Mrs. Dana Zeigler and Mrs. Gary Walsh, were also present.

During the meeting Fair committees were named. Selected were: booths — Cindy Donahue, chairman, Sandy Zeigler, Carol Hill, Susan Walsh, Sueann Knisley; talent show — Janet Lyons, chairman, Margie Buchwalter, Peggy French, Jan Reisinger, and Connie Jackson; tour — Kathy Lyons, chairman, Pam Timmons, Suzanne Seymour, Laurel Handley, and Debbie Dearth; Telephone — Sherrie Edler, Ann Stewart and Jill Congrove. Junior and Senior health contestants are Jan Reisinger and Sherry Knisley.

There was to be a special meeting July 13 for a style show. Judging of the Fair projects will be July 24.

After the business meeting, Sueann Knisley and Peggy French gave a demonstration on the proper setting of a dinner table.

Mrs. Emma Canter and daughter, Susan, arrived Thursday from their home at Reddish, Stockport, Cheshire County, England, to spend five weeks with Mr. and Mrs. Roy Canter and family. The Canthers hadn't seen their granddaughter, Susan, since she was 4-months-old. She is now 18.

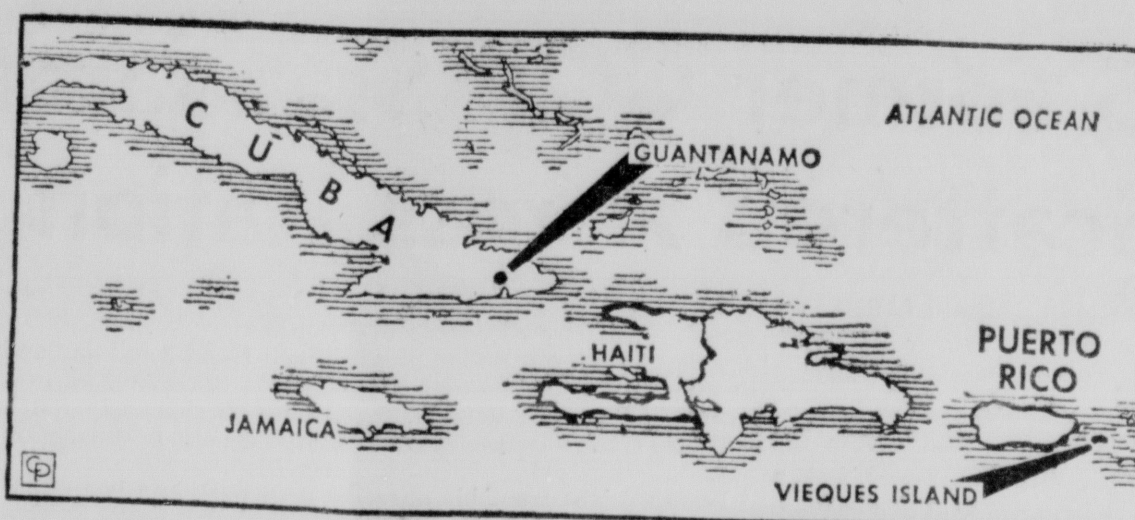

Mr. and Mrs. William Russell and sons Ken, Mark and John will be leaving this community this summer. Mr. Russell, who has been music director at Paint Valley High School, has been hired as principal and band director at Middleport High School.

Man Tagged as 'Red' Files $250,000 Suit

CLEVELAND (AP)—William C. Sandberg filed a $250,000 libel suit against the Forest City Publishing Co., publisher of the Plain Dealer, Tuesday. The East Side man alleged he was identified as a Communist and thereby libeled in a Feb. 6 story about picketing by the Congress of Racial Equality at Central Police Station. Sandberg said in his petition he renounced Communism 24 years ago.

Springfield Aide Dies

SPRINGFIELD, Ohio (AP)—William F. Otto, city treasurer here the last 13 years, died Tuesday night in City Hospital. He was 67.

U. S. REPORTED PREPARING NEW MAJOR BASE — According to reports in London, the United States is preparing a major base on its small Caribbean island of Vieques, off the east coast of Puerto Rico, which could, if necessary, substitute for the U.S. naval base at Guantanamo, Cuba. Vieques (Crab Island) is 21 miles long and six miles wide. It was said further, however, that the U. S. has no intentions of vacating Guantanamo.

Mail Order Guns Sold to Ex-Cons

CHICAGO (AP)—Police Supt. O. W. Wilson says that a check of records shows that in a three-month period 13 Chicagoans once arrested on murder charges had bought guns by mail.

Other mail order firearms purchasers included 58 persons arrested for robbery, 42 for burglary, 83 for carrying concealed firearms and 111 for assault.

Wilson said Monday that police got the information from invoice records supplied by a U.S. Senate subcommittee.

Wilson said there is nothing police can do about such sales at present.

St. Marys Goodyear Starts Expansion

ST. MARYS, Ohio (AP)—Work began here today to make the Goodyear Tire & Rubber Co.'s largest plant even larger. The $1 million expansion is expected to be completed by Jan. 1, 1965.

The go-ahead on construction by the Frank Stedke Co. of Lima came after civic groups raised $23,000 to pay persons who said their business properties would be damaged by the closing of a street to link the old and new plants. The civic organizations decided to raise the money rather than await what might have been lengthy court litigation.

5 Former GOP Standardbearers Scattered Across Nation Today

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—As a new man joins their ranks today, the Republican standard bearers of the past will spend their day scattered across the land, from Wall Street and a Manhattan tower to this convention city by the Golden Gate.

The men who have led the Republican party to victory and defeat in the presidential years of the past will be busy at work, ill at home, or dabbling once more in politics.

Let's look at how they will spend their day:

Richard M. Nixon — 1960 Nixon leaves the St. Francis Hotel at the foot of Nob Hill here early today and drives up the hill to the Fairmont Hotel. After breakfast there with the California delegation, he returns to the St. Francis to prepare for an open house that he and his wife, Pat, are holding for all the delegates.

Nixon plans to stay away from the doings at the Cow Palace all day. He'll spend the rest of the day in his suite, receiving visitors, watching television and preparing his unity speech for the convention Thursday.

Dwight D. Eisenhower—1952 and 1956

Eisenhower, who was nominated in this convention city in 1956, plans to keep tabs on the day's developments from his hotel suite. He has held back from mixing in the battle over the presidential nomination and has constantly maintained his neutrality.

As a political consultant to the American Broadcasting Co., the former president as he has every day of this convention plans to appear on television programs twice during the day.

Thomas E. Dewey—1944 and 1948

Dewey drives from his apartment at 141 E. 72nd Street, New York, to the 40 Wall Street office of his law firm, Dewey, Ballantine, Bushby, Palmer and Wood.

He'll spend a full day on legal matters, conferring with clients, finding no chance to watch the San Francisco convention on television.

He'll work in a law office that has collection books of cases he prosecuted as a district attorney in New York, a desk and chair that he used as a governor of New York, and no mementos at all of the campaigns he lost in 1944 and 1948 for the presidency.

He probably will leave his office between 5:30 and 6 p.m. and drive home, where he may get a chance to watch the Republican proceedings on television.

Alf Landon—1936

Landon has no other plans than a routine work session in the morning at his office in radio station WREN, Topeka, Kan.

As usual, he plans to top his morning with a lunch at his favorite restaurant, where he often talks politics with friends, newsmen, and, in fact, strangers.

"After lunch," he says, "I'll probably go to the house and listen to the nominating speeches on radio. They'll probably take a break for about an hour and then come back for the roll calls. It will all be over on the first ballot."

Herbert Hoover—1928 and 1932 Hoover, who will be 90 next month, has been ill for some time in his Waldorf-Astoria apartment in New York.

The former president has been watching the proceedings here on television, and the most momentous moment for him came Monday night when Sen. Everett M. Dirksen of Illinois read Hoover's message to the convention and prefaced it with a glowing tribute to "the grand old man of the Grand Old Party."

The delegates cheered and waved their banners wildly in honor of the oldest living standard bearer of the Republican party.

COW PALACE CAPERS

THE ONLY WOMAN seeking the Republican presidential nomination, Maine's Sen. Margaret Chase Smith, has a happy wave for one and all at doings in San Francisco.

LET'S GO BOWLING!—W... a ten-pin pin-up like this, who wouldn't? Miss Rusty Anderson here models the winning costume at the International Bowling Fashion Show in New York. It's slightly futuristic but we like it!

Soldier on Furlough Finds His Father Dead

CINCINNATI (AP)—A Cincinnati soldier came home on furlough from Ft. Knox, Ky., and found his father's body Tuesday in the older man's apartment. Police said Timothy Hollon, 57, had been dead three to four weeks. They said there was no sign of violence.

PFC Robert Hollon made the grim discovery after breaking down the door on the fourth-floor apartment where his widowed father had been living alone.

PIGEONS AND DISEASE

Q. Can pigeons transmit diseases to humans?

A. Pigeon excreta may contain a variety of viruses and germs that cause disease in man. For example, the virus of ornithosis, a disease similar to parot fever, is frequently acquired from pigeons. The birds are susceptible to the disease and usually continue to discharge the virus in their excreta for long periods after recovery. A fungus organism (Histoplasma capsulatum) grows in pigeon droppings. Inhalation of dried material containing this organism has been incriminated as a cause of a disease in man which may be fatal. Several other conditions are known or suspected to be pigeon-spread to man.

EARDRUMS IN FLIGHT

Q. How can ear discomfort during and after flight be prevented? Are ear-plugs helpful?

A. Persons susceptible to this type of annoyance should chew gum or engage in repeated swallowing during descent. The only value of ear-plugs is to lessen annoyance caused by the noise of the aircraft engines. This is most noticeable in older-type piston-engined craft. The noise level in modern jet-engined planes is unlikely to prove annoying to anyone other than the most susceptible.

Answers appearing in these columns are of necessity brief and general and do not necessarily reflect the opinion of all physicians. Remember—the diagnosis and treatment of disease is the function of the patient's personal physician.

The World Today

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—The Republicans' chief concern was not in picking their presidential candidates today—that looked cut-and-dried—but in how to keep the party together after they do.

Two famous party leaders have expressed the depth of this concern. Former President Dwight D. Eisenhower and former Vice President Richard M. Nixon both pleaded for unity, and even they didn't agree on how to achieve it.

For weeks Sen. Barry Goldwater looked a cinch for the nomination. But his chief rival, Pennsylvania's Gov. William W. Scranton, who started off with a wishy-washy campaign, wound up in bitterness against him. Eisenhower thought it would be a "good ticket" if Scranton ran for the vice presidency on the ticket behind Goldwater. This showed Eisenhower who played neutral, didn't have much optimism about Scranton's No. 1 chances.

Nixon doubted a Goldwater-Scranton ticket would be good. For one thing, he said, because of the bitterness between Goldwater and Scranton he didn't think they'd be compatible as team-mates.

There never seemed any doubt at this dull convention that Goldwater controlled enough delegates to nominate him and that the score was in before they got here. This is what made the convention dull. His followers over the past 3½ years have put together an extremely loyal, hardworking and efficient machine, one of the best this country has seen in years.

But the big unknown in all these efforts has been how much support Goldwater could expect on Election Day from the rank-and-file Republicans around the country.

Although he won the California presidential primary from New York's Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller, he lost to Rockefeller in Oregon and in New Hampshire to Henry Cabot Lodge who was off in South Viet Nam as U.S. ambassador.

Some of the intensity of feeling in the party showed itself Tuesday night when Rockefeller was booed when he pleaded for an amendment to the party platform repudiating extremism. Rockefeller offered this for Scranton.

Michigan's Gov. George Romney on his own proposed a similar amendment. The platform as it stands was put together by a committee dominated by Goldwater followers. The anti-extremist proposals lost overwhelmingly.

Likewise the delegates lined up with Goldwater—who had voted against the civil rights bill June 19—by drowning out another Scranton effort to strengthen the platform's civil rights section.

The loss of the three governors, states — New York, Pennsylvania, Michigan — caused Nixon grievous damage when he ran for the presidency in 1960. They were key states in giving the election to John F. Kennedy.

Between them those three states have 93 of the 338 electoral votes in this year's presidential election.

Rockefeller was Nixon's rival for the nomination four years ago. He was an adamant opponent until Nixon made both a pilgrimage and concessions to him. Then Rockefeller supported Nixon.

There's been no such Rockefeller-Goldwater get-together this time, and none between Scranton and Goldwater. Both governors have been intense critics of the senator who is far more conservative than either.

This week Scranton's staff sent Goldwater a contemptuous letter. This was in addition to Scranton's statement some time ago that Goldwater is unfit for the presidency. It's hard to see how he can support him after that.

What Romney will do is fog-bound at the moment. But he has not been in Goldwater's camp.

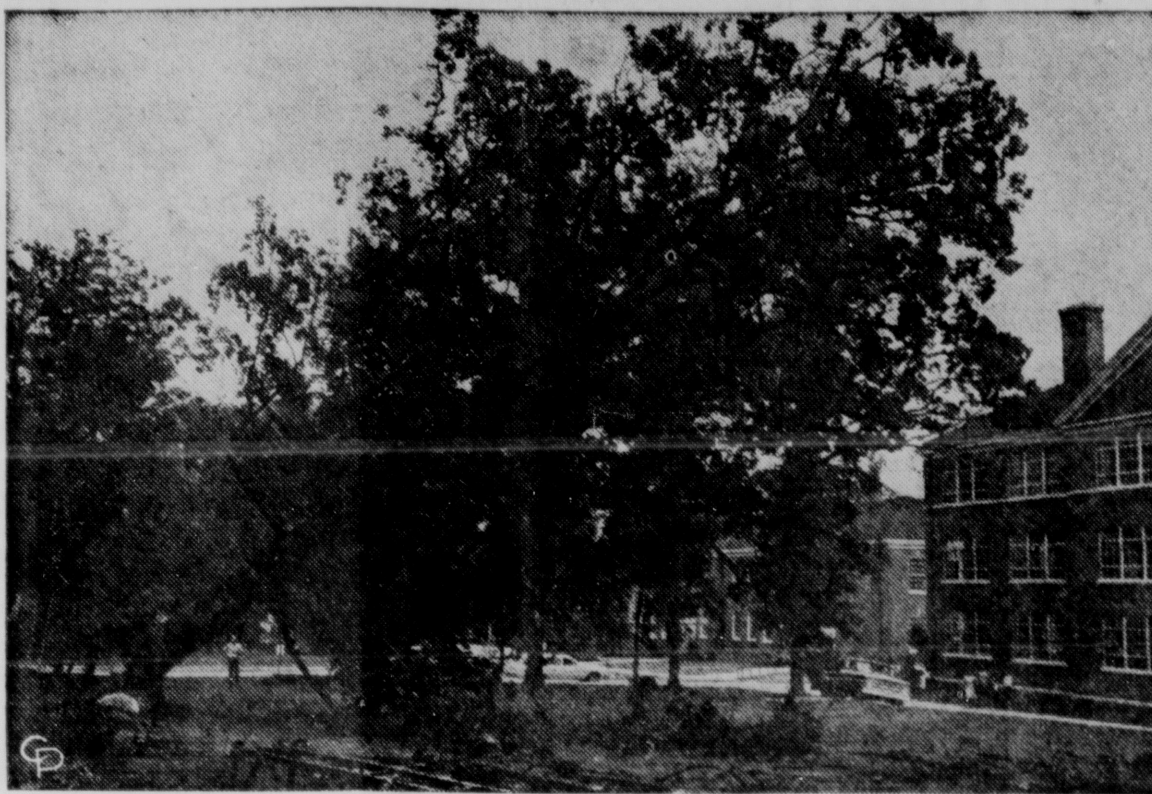

White Church To Observe Anniversary

The Salem United Church of Christ (White Church), State Route 180, will hold special services Saturday and Sunday in observance of the 150th anniversary of the founding of the church.

There will be an old timers night 7:30 p. m. Saturday with the Rev. Joseph Beth, Dayton, as the speaker.

At 2 p. m. Sunday the speaker will be the Rev. George Eberhard, Cleveland, a former minister of the church. A history of the church will be given.

Music will be presented at both services and the women of the church will serve refreshments.

MIGHTY OAK FELLED FOR EDUCATION—Making way for new science laboratories, a magnificent, aged oak tree is felled at Miami University in Oxford, Ohio. The oak is estimated to be about the same age as the university itself, founded in 1809. In all, 28 trees were cut to make way for the new laboratory wing of Miami's Upham Hall.

The Heidelberg Class of the United Church of Christ met at the home of Mrs. H. C. Metzger Thursday afternoon. Mrs. Ralph Adams, president, presided and also had devotions. Readings were "Keeping up with the Joneses", by Mrs. Frank Harvey and "The Untold Story of our Flag", by Mrs. Roy Harden.

Mrs. F. L. Valentine told of the Pageant "Unto These Hills", describing a Cherokee Indian Reservation and of a tour through the Biltmore Estate at Asheville, N. C. Lunch was served by the hostess.

Joe Valachi Languishes In Jail Cell

WASHINGTON (AP) — What ever happened to Joseph Valachi?

The talkative mobster who detailed for the federal government the inner workings of "La Cosa Nostra"—the multimillion-dollar organized crime empire—sits today where he has languished since testifying before a Senate subcommittee last fall—in the District of Columbia jail.

The government has no plans to move him, although a Justice Department official acknowledged that Valachi's storehouse of crime information has been pretty well milked dry.

At 61, Valachi was described by an official who knows him as "in top condition—down to his old fighting weight." In his secluded cell he continues daily calisthenics to keep in shape. He spends much time watching television.

Valachi does not mingle with other prisoners. During the weeks when his name was becoming a household word, the story got out that the underworld was offering $100,000 to anyone who would kill Valachi for breaking the secret oath of La Cosa Nostra.

He still gets some mail from strangers, a Justice Department official said. Occasionally there's a "crackpot letter" from someone who views him as a stoop-pigeon—but never any serious threats.

'Handkerchief' Game Costs Woman $4000

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Three men used the old "handkerchief trick" to bilk a south side Columbus woman of $4,000, police reported Tuesday.

Mrs. Audrey Watiker, 46, told police one of the men asked her to withdraw some money from her savings account to convince him of the reliability of banks.

When she returned with the $4,000, she and her husband had been saving for "when we get old," the man asked her to open an account for him.

He took her money and placed it in a handkerchief, supposedly already containing his money.

After the trio disappeared Mrs. Watiker discovered the handkerchief he gave her was stuffed with scraps of paper.

Bullet in Head Said Cause of Man's Death

CLEVELAND (AP)—A bullet in the temple killed a 36-year-old East Side man whose body was found in a suburban Beachwood field, says Coroner Samuel R. Gerber. The body of Arville G. Moore, a former parking lot attendant, was found by two boys Monday night. Moore was reported missing July 3.

Kiwanis Posts 14-0 Victory

Tom Cassill Hurls No-Hitter at GE

Tom Cassill paced unbeaten Kiwanis to an easy 14-0 win over GE in the Babe Ruth Majors as he fired a no-hitter. Only one GE runner reached the base paths—via an error.

The win — the Kiwanians 13th straight and third in the third round — came at a good time as the GE nine was making a bid for honors in the final round. They now are 2-1.

The Kiwanians plastered 18 hits and scored a run in each inning except the fifth. Their big inning was the sixth when they crossed the plate six times.

Cassill, who faced just 23 batters, threw three strikes past 10 hitters.

CASSILL and Ron Bryant tagged the only extra base blows of the game — doubles. Both boys added two singles in five trips. John Funk hit twice and scored four runs.

Bill Hill started for the losers and was tagged for 12 hits and 12 runs. He walked five and fanned one batter.

Rick Congrove replaced Hill and gave-up two runs on six hits. He walked three and fanned two.

Kochheiser Tops Bankers In 6-5 Bout

Kochheiser Hardware won its second Babe Ruth minor game of the year last night by nipping the Third National Bank, 6-5, in a tight pitchers' battle.

Kochheiser managed a score in the second inning, two in the fourth and three in the final canth.

John Stevenson fired the win for the Hardware nine, allowing four hits. He walked six and fanned two hitters.

Pete Knox paced the winners at the plate when he hit a double. Stevenson contributed two singles to the win.

Roddy Osborne suffered the loss as the Bankers' pitcher. He allowed six hits, walked six and struckout 13 batters.

Osborne tagged a double to pace his team at the plate.

French Course Pestors Rodgers

CHANTILLY, France (AP) — "It's a beautiful course," Phil Rodgers said after he dropped a 20-foot birdie putt on the 12th hole and went three under par on the second round of the French Open Golf Tourney.

Six holes later he was talking to himself. "I never saw such a tough course," the La Jolla, Calif. pro muttered Tuesday on the 18th hole of the 6,722-yard Chnattilly Course, and lost his lead to Argentine veteran Roberto DeVicenzo.

DeVicenzo, who won the French Open in 1950 and 1960, shot a six-under 65 to break Rodgers' day-old course record and took a one-stroke lead into today's third round.

Coach Mel McGaha of the Kansas City Athletics started in baseball with the Houston team of the Texas League in 1948.

13 hits. The losers hit safely 14 times.

John Hunt was the starting JC pitcher. He was replaced by Donald Snyder who was declared the winner.

Mike Webb and Wertie Teets fired for the losers. They fanned eight batters.

Flamboyant Tony Lema Is Golf's New Glamor Boy

COLUMBUS, Ohio, (AP) — Tony Lema puffed away nonchalantly on a cigarette, held at a rakish angle in a long, white holder.

"A little gift from the duke of Windsor in Paris," he said condescendingly, flicking ashes from his dark blazer.

Ken Venturi, the new U.S. Open champion, came into the locker room at the Columbus Country Club and tossed his shoes into a nearby stall, "Oh, you must be the fellow who won that American tournament," Lema said, affecting a British accent.

Venturi, who grew up with Lema in the Golden Gate area around San Francisco, blinked.

This is golf's new glamor boy — sensational winner of the British Open last weekend, the most colorful figure to flash across the fairways since the incomparable Walter Hagen of the Golden Twenties.

The Haig was flashy and flamboyant. His sweaters were the fleeciest, the crease in his knickers the sharpest and his barb the most radiant on the tour.

A somewhat similar affluence and class are the trademarks of Tony Lema, the poor widow's son who escaped juvenile delinquency on the docks of the West Coast and came out of obscurity to attain a prominent niche in golf.

When he wins a tournament — and he's won four of his last six — he springs for champagne in the press room.

He uses a fancy cigarette holder actually given him by the onetime King Edward of England last weekend. He talks fancy and puts on a big show, but it's all an act.

It's Lema's gimmick and a good one.

Actually, Lema is a handsome, modest young man, 30 years old, deep-set blue eyes, dark curly hair and a slim figure. He broke a thousand teenage hearts less than a year ago when he married an airline hostess, Betty Cline.

He is popular with his fellow pros. The gallery loves him and he is even making inroads into Arnie's Army.

And if he can add the PGA championship here this weekend, he may grab them all. He's that kind of guy.

Millers Blast Bingmans

After grabbing a share of second round honors, Bingman Drugs dropped their first game of the final session to Ralston Purina last night, 17-1, with Purina hurler Andy Blanton firing a one - hitter.

The winning Millers, compiling 12 hits, scored in every inning off three Bingman pitchers.

Blanton walked three batters, fanned 11 and threw one wild pitch in his route - going performance.

Jerry Schlichter paced Purina at the plate with a triple and a double. Blanton added a double and Rod Kasler hit a home-run and two singles.

DICK RADCLIFF started for the losers. He was replaced by Rickey Blankenship, who was aided by Rickey Jacobs.

Radcliff walked six, fanned one and allowed four hits. Blankenship walked seven batters, whiffed two and permitted four hits. Jacobs walked two, fanned one and permitted four hits.

Blankenship managed the only Bingman hit, a single in the second inning. He scored his team's only run in the same frame.

HARDWORKING DUO — Arnie Palmer appears to be one of the hardest working pros at the Columbus Country Club where the PGA is being held this week. The PGA crown is one of the few Palmer has never won. A perfectionist himself, Palmer also demands perfection from his caddy, who is Richard Fuhrman (left), of the Pickaway Country Club. Most Circleville youths serving as caddies for the event were on the course at one time or another yesterday.

Circleville Lumber, Bowlers Win Mosquito League Tests

Circleville Lumber stayed on top of the Mosquito League, edging the Knights of Columbus, 4-3, yesterday while Prairie Lanes posted a 15-10 win over Pickaway Dairy.

The Lumbermen maintained a perfect 10-0 record with their victory. Dave Truex was the winning pitcher. He whiffed 14, allowed five hits and walked five. He went the route for the winners.

league, in spite of the loss, with an 8-2 record.

Moving into a tie for third place with Mac's Goodyear was the Prairie Lanes team. The Bowlers now stand at 6-4 for the season.

In the first frame the Bowlers took a 2-1 lead over the Dayirmen and they never trailed. In the third they exploded for seven runs, added two in the fourth and four in the fifth.

The Dayirmen scored only four runs the first five innings but rallied for six in the final frame.

Steve Brungs started for the winners and was credited with the win. He fanned seven and walked seven. Mike Hierron relieved him. He walked two and whiffed seven but was touched for seven hits.

JERRY Boltenhouse went the route for the losers, walking two and fanning seven. He was the victim of the Bowlers' 16-hit attack.

Steve Allen blasted a triple and a single in three trips for the winners.

Robert York had a double and a pair of singles as did Jim Wagner. John Rooker belted a double. For the losers, Mike Goldberry's double was the longest hit. He had a perfect night at the plate, going three-for-three.

Boltenhouse cracked a pair of singles in a losing cause.

Mark McFadden, the Bowlers second sacker, turned in a solid defensive performance. He came up with four assists, including the final out of the game.

1st National Jaycees Win In LL Minors

In the Little League Minors battle of the Banks yesterday, the first National crew thumped the Savings Bank 33-14. The Jaycees downed IOOF, 17-14.

Harold Smith and Mike Sabine combined to hurl the First Bank win. Both pitched three innings. Together they walked nine batters and allowed 19 hits.

Dan Zieckafosse powered a homerun and four singles for the winners. Richard Sanscrainte hit a triple and a single, Richard Hanley banged a triple, double and two singles, Smith added a triple, double and single, and Mike Sabine hit three doubles.

John Payne was at the plate seven times. He didn't manage a hit, but scored seven runs.

PAUL GARRISON started for the losers and was replaced by Richard Hodge, who was aided by Van Griffey. Mike Hamrick finished the game. Together, the four scored 26 walks and 22 hits.

Griffey paced his team with two triples and two singles. Keller added a double and four singles.

In the Jaycee - IOOF tilt, the winning Jaycee n ine managed

Kiwanis Posts 14-0 Victory

Tom Cassill Hurls No-Hitter at GE

Tom Cassill paced unbeaten Kiwanis to an easy 14-0 win over GE in the Babe Ruth Majors as he fired a no-hitter. Only one GE runner reached the base paths—via an error.

The win — the Kiwanians 13th straight and third in the third round — came at a good time as the GE nine was making a bid for honors in the final round. They now are 2-1.

The Kiwanians plastered 18 hits and scored a run in each inning except the fifth. Their big inning was the sixth when they crossed the plate six times. Cassill, who faced just 23 batters, threw three strikes past 10 hitters.

CASSILL and Ron Bryant tagged the only extra base blows of the game — doubles. Both boys added two singles in five trips. John Funk hit twice and scored four runs.

Bill Hill started for the losers and was tagged for 12 hits and 12 runs. He walked five and fanned one batter.

Rick Congrove replaced Hill and gave-up two runs on six hits. He walked three and fanned two.

Kochheiser Tops Bankers In 6-5 Bout

Kochheiser Hardware won its second Babe Ruth minor game of the year last night by nipping the Third National Bank, 6-5, in a tight pitchers' battle.

Kochheiser managed a score in the second inning, two in the fourth and three in the final can-to. Third National tallied four in the second and one in the fifth.

John Stevenson fired the win for the Hardware nine, allowing four hits. He walked six and fanned two hitters.

Pete Knox paced the winners at the plate when he hit a double. Stevenson contributed two singles to the win.

Roddy Osborne suffered the loss as the Bankers' pitcher. He allowed six hits, walked six and struckout 13 batters.

Osborne tagged a double to pace his team at the plate.

French Course Pestors Rodgers

CHANTILLY, France (AP) — "It's a beautiful course," Phil Rodgers said after he dropped a 20-foot birdie putt on the 12th hole and went three under par on the second round of the French Open Golf Tourney.

Six holes later he was talking to himself. "I never saw such a tough course," the La Jolla, Calif. pro muttered Tuesday on the 18th hole of the 6,722-yard Chantilly Course, and lost his lead to Argentine veteran Roberto DeVicenzo.

DeVicenzo, who won the French Open in 1950 and 1960, shot a six-under 65 to break Rodgers' day-old course record and took a one-stroke lead into today's third round.

Coach Mel McGaha of the Kansas City Athletics started in baseball with the Houston team of the Texas League in 1948.

13 hits. The losers hit safely 14 times. John Hunt was the starting JC pitcher. He was replaced by Donald Snyder who was declared the winner.

Mike Webb and Wertie Teets fired for the losers. They fanned eight batters.

Orioles Lose Their Touch In Tight Tilt

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The trouble with the Baltimore Orioles is they can't win those one-run ball games.

The trouble is only three days old but it's beginning to tell on the pennant-hungry Orioles. They dropped a 4-3 decision to New York Tuesday night in the opener of a vital three-game set and saw their American League lead dwindle to one-half game over the onrushing Yankees.

The Orioles suddenly have lost their touch in pressure games after reeling off 21 victories in their first 23 one-run contests. They were beaten twice by Detroit—each time by a 4-3 score in 10 innings—before Mickey Mantle, Tom Tresh and Al Downing collaborated for Tuesday night's Yankee victory before a New York crowd of 38,102.

Stu Miller, the wily junkman of the Baltimore bullpen, was the victim of eighth inning hits by Mantle and Tresh that broke a 3-3 tie and gave the Yankees their fifth straight triumph in the storm and won his fourth in a row with a six-hitter.

Elsewhere in the AL, Juan Pizarro became the league's first 13-game winner as Chicago topped Boston 4-2; Washington nipped Minnesota 4-3; Detroit beat Los Angeles by the same score and Cleveland outlasted Kansas City 9-7.

St. Louis overtook Los Angeles 8-7; Pittsburgh edged Philadelphia 4-3; Milwaukee surprised San Francisco 8-7; Chicago topped New York 4-2 and Cincinnati won a pair from Houston 6-5 and 10-3 in National League activity.

Top Pros Set For Ohio Test

PGA Tournament To Open Thursday

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Arnold Palmer wants to win. Jack Nicklaus must win. Tony Lema doesn't much care.

That's the story of the three favorites in the 48th PGA tournament which opens here Thursday over the Columbus Country Club course.

Add U.S. Open champ Ken Venturi who says he is ready to climb off cloud nine and get back to work. Throw in Gary Player, who is putting again.

Remember Billy Casper, who has a cold—a dangerous sign. He plays best when he's hurting.

And that's the chalk talk for the tournament, last of the Big Four in golf. A winner from outside those six would come as a big surprise, although there are plenty in the field who could do it.

All the top pros are here for the annual family party, including such greats as Ben Hogan, Sam Snead, Vic Ghezzi and old Denny Shute, last man to win the PGA two years in a row. That was 1936-37.

Palmer wants this one badly. It is the only big one he has never won. He predicted it will take a score of 272, eight under par for the 34-36-70 course, which measures only 6,851 yards, short for these days.

Nicklaus, a Columbus boy who has not won a big one this year even though he is the leading money winner with some $81,000.

This is his last chance to get into the World Series of Golf, which he won the last two years. Palmer, the Masters winner; Lema and Venturi are already in.

Lema, who staved off a great challenge by Nicklaus in the British Open, said "I don't think I can get up for another big one so soon, but who knows? I'm in a trance, I don't practice. I just hit the ball. Everything I'm doing is right."

And Venturi who took the Open to end three years of heartache and despair, said "I can't see anything but the flag. Somebody asked me why I keep shooting at the flag. I told him, 'That's where the holes are.'"

Amazing dental discovery. 'Cushion Grip'—ends sore spots—refits loose dentures to hold snug as a dentist's mold! Tasteless! Nothing to mix! One application lasts months!

After years of research, modern science has developed a remarkable new way to make false teeth fit beautifully—stop looseness, slipping, clicking, relieve sore spots—without messy, old-fashioned pastes, powders and pads! It's Cushion Grip—amazing new soft, pliable plastic that holds false teeth snug as a dentist's mold, through soothing suction—makes loose dentures fit properly again. Result is, you can talk, laugh, eat anything without discomfort or embarrassment! Cushion Grip is easy to use—nothing to mix or measure! Simply squeeze

Reds Sweep Double Bill From Colts
CINCINNATI (AP)—The Cincinnati Reds moved into closer contention for the National League leadership by sweeping Tuesday's two-night doubleheader from Houston, 6-5 and 10-3.

Both the top-run San Francisco Giants and second-place Philadelphia dropped a game and the Reds are now 5½ games out of first place and 4½ behind the Phils.

Cincinnati took advantage of poor control by Houston pitchers to win the first game in 11 innings.

The second game was a rout as the Reds batted 16 hits, including two homers while pitcher Jim Maloney was striking out 10 batters and coasting along on the cushion.

Manager Fred Hutchinson announced during the evening that the Reds have bought the contract of catcher Don Pavletich to fill in for John Edwards who has a sore throwing arm.

Pavletich caught for the Reds last season and has batted .310 in 69 games for San Diego of the Pacific Coast League this year. The Reds will have to release one of their players when he reports.

Dayton Belmont's Honored Coach Resigns Position

DAYTON, Ohio (AP)—Basketball Coach of the Year John Ross, 39, of Dayton Belmont High School resigned from coaching duties today.

Ross will continue as a history teacher, but said he wants to complete college work for his master's degree. He indicated he might look into a college coaching position after that.

Roy James, 54, Ross' assistant and a head basketball coach five times, will take over the Bison team for 1964-65. Both James and Ross are Wilmington College graduates.

In three seasons, Ross-coached Bison teams posted records of 11-9 18-3 and 26-1, winning the State Class AA crown this season. The Bison won 21 straight over the past two seasons.

Ross said he has not decided where to finish his master's work.

Hall of Famer Luke Appling, now a Kansas City coach, broke in with Atlanta in 1930. It was his only minor league season as a shortstop.

EDITORS NOTE—James Francisus, the Yale English major who plays a school teacher in NBC's "Mr. Novak," tackles here the difficult job of explaining the worlds that separate a hard-working, ambitious young actor from the hard-working, dedicated young teacher he portrays week after week. He writes for Cynthia Lowry who is on vacation.

By JAMES FRANCISCUS
HOLLYWOOD (AP)—I'm a little intimidated by a high school teacher named John Novak.

It's my job to portray him on the "Mr. Novak" series, but the more I learn about him, the more I realize that the job demands something besides acting skill.

John Novak, in case you haven't been introduced, is a practical, hard-working idealist. He campaigns, every Tuesday night, against ignorance and inertia. He decided while on duty with the Air Force in Korea that knowledge, not guns, holds the solution to many of man's problems.

That's the character executive producer Jack Neuman created and asked me to play when he and Boris Sagal blueprinted the show a year ago.

But in his first semester of teaching, John Novak grew far beyond these limits.

Neuman's impertinent experiment—to bring a sincere, dedicated, unhystrical teacher to television's audience—succeeded.

Now real students write us about how they gain inspiration from John Novak. Real teachers admit to finding new dignity and new purpose in their lives because of him and Principal Albert Vane who is played by Dean Jagger.

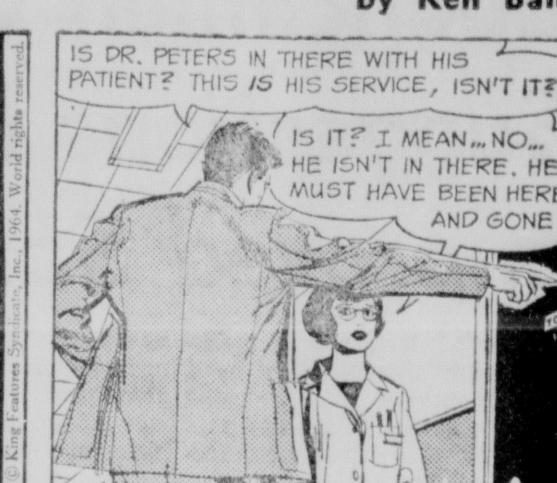

The letters have a tendency to lump John Novak and James Francisus into one big fuzzy package and praise me for my selfless devotion to education.

But I'm not John Novak, the selfless, under-paid teacher. I'm James Francisus, the well-paid actor. Through letters and daily personal contact with educators who work with the "Mr. Novak" show, all of us—the cast, the production crew, the writers—have a powerful new awareness of the educator's urgent role in our culture.

The plaudits belong to John Novak—to the John Novaks and the Jane Novaks in big schools and little schools all across the country.

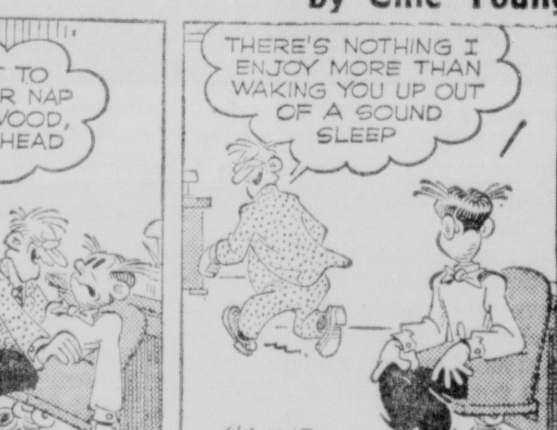

Frank Linzy, who won 16 games for Springfield, Mass., in the Eastern League last year, pitched a 7-0 three-hitter in his Pacific Coast League bow with Tacoma. He beat Dallas.

After years of research, modern science has developed a remarkable new way to make false teeth fit beautifully—stop looseness, slipping, clicking, relieve sore spots—without messy, old-fashioned pastes, powders and pads! It's CUSHION GRIP—amazing new soft, pliable plastic that holds false teeth snug as a dentist's mold, through soothing suction—makes loose dentures fit properly again. Result is, you can talk, laugh, eat anything without discomfort or embarrassment!

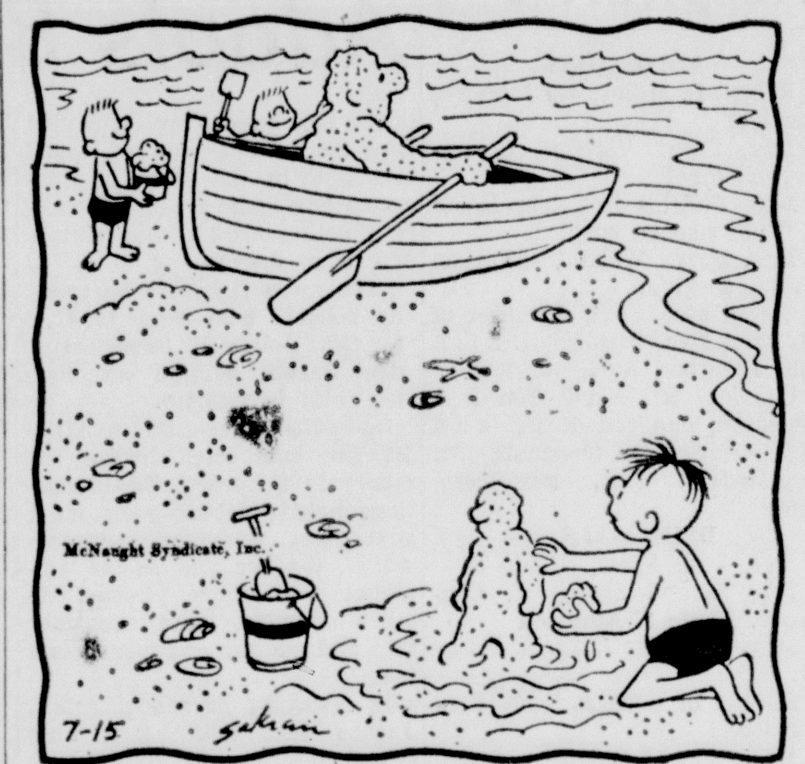

CUSHION GRIP is easy to use—nothing to mix or measure! Simply squeeze out of tube onto dentures, then insert false teeth into mouth and bite down. Instantly, CUSHION GRIP molds to contours of mouth and gums—provides beautiful fit—holds dentures firmly in place with suction. Looseness, slipping, clicking, disappear. Reds Sweep Double Bill From Colts

CINCINNATI (AP)—The Cincinnati Reds moved into closer contention for the National League leadership by sweeping Tuesday's two-night doubleheader from Houston, 6-5 and 10-3.

Both the top-run San Francisco Giants and second-place Philadelphia dropped a game and the Reds are now 5½ games out of first place and 4½ behind the Phils.

Cincinnati took advantage of poor control by Houston pitchers to win the first game in 11 innings.

The second game was a rout as the Reds banged 16 hits, including two homers while pitcher Jim Maloney was striking out 10 batters and coasting along on the cushion.

Manager Fred Hutchinson announced during the evening that the Reds have bought the contract of catcher Don Pavletich to fill in for John Edwards who has a sore throwing arm.

Pavletich caught for the Reds last season and has batted .310 in 69 games for San Diego of the Pacific Coast League this year. The Reds will have to release one of their players when he reports.

Dayton Belmont's Honored Coach Resigns Position

DAYTON, Ohio (AP)—Basketball Coach of the Year John Ross, 39, of Dayton Belmont High School resigned from coaching duties today.

Ross will continue as a history teacher, but said he wants to complete college work for his master's degree. He indicated he might look into a college coaching position after that.

Roy James, 54, Ross' assistant and a head basketball coach five times, will take over the Bison team for 1964 - 65. Both James and Ross are Wilmington College graduates.

In three seasons, Ross-coached Bison teams posted records of 11-9 18-3 and 26-1, winning the State Class AA crown this season. The Bison won 21 straight over the past two seasons.

Ross said he has not decided where to finish his master's work.

Hall of Famer Luke Appling, now a Kansas City coach, broke in at Atlanta in 1930. It was his only minor league season as a shortstop.

EDITORS NOTE —James Franciscus, the Yale English major who plays a school teacher in NBC's "Mr. Novak," tackles here the difficult job of explaining the worlds that separate a hard-working, ambitious young actor from the hard-working, dedicated young teacher he portrays week after week. He writes for Cynthia Lowry who is on vacation.

By JAMES FRANCISCUS

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—I'm a little intimidated by a high school teacher named John Novak.

It's my job to portray him on the "Mr. Novak" series, but the more I learn about him, the more I realize that the job demands something besides acting skill.

John Novak, in case you haven't been introduced, is a practical, hard-working idealist. He campaigns, every Tuesday night, against ignorance and inertia. He decided while on duty with the Air Force in Korea that knowledge, not guns, holds the solution to many of man's problems.

That's the character executive producer Jack Neuman created and asked me to play when he and Boris Sagal blueprinted the show a year ago.

But in his first semester of teaching, John Novak grew far beyond these limits.

Neuman's impertinent experiment—to bring a sincere, dedicated, unhystrical teacher to television's audience—succeeded.

Now real students write us about how they gain inspiration from John Novak. Real teachers admit to finding new dignity and new purpose in their lives because of him and Principal Albert Vane who is played by Dean Jagger.

The letters have a tendency to lump John Novak and James Franciscus into one big fuzzy package and praise me for my selfless devotion to education.

But I'm not John Novak, the selfless, under-paid teacher.

I'm James Franciscus, the well-paid actor. Through letters and daily personal contact with educators who work with the "Mr. Novak" show, all of us—the cast, the production crew, the writers—have a powerful new awareness of the educator's urgent role in our culture.

The plaudits belong to John Novak—to the John Novaks and the Jane Novaks in big schools and little schools all across the country.

Frank Linzy, who won 16 games for Springfield, Mass., in the Eastern League last year, pitched a 7-0 three-hitter in his Pacific Coast League bow with Tacoma. He beat Dallas.

Councilmen List Suggestions for Improved Safety

Improved traffic and pedestrian safety was the focal point when members of Circleville Council's safety committee met last night with city law enforcement officials.

Offering suggestions for improvements were safety panel members John Jenkins, David Crawford and Keith Wagner. Enforcement agencies were represented by Police Chief Robert Temple, Safety Director Miller Fissell and Municipal Judge Sterling M. Lamb.

The solons submitted 10 suggestions that they feel could improve the traffic situation in Circleville. Several of the recommendations already have been put into effect and the enforcement officials indicated the others will be closely studied and made operative where possible.

The lawmakers and city officials both rated the meeting as a worthwhile session. They asserted that steps in the right direction can now be taken toward bettering the safety picture here.

ONE of the first suggestions considered was a crackdown on reckless operation and loud noises made by motor vehicles. Similar steps were recommended for speeding and passing traffic signals.

City police have already been making wide use of the radar system as a means of curtailing speeders. Chief Temple has said this practice will continue.

NAACP Claims Pool Use Denial

Representatives of the Ross County NAACP have claimed they were denied admission to the Gold Cliff Park swimming pool Monday afternoon.

They said a lifeguard closed the refreshment stand and the door to the pool entrance when the Negroes appeared and said they desired to go swimming. The three representatives were told the pool was closed, according to the NAACP spokesmen.

They added that there were persons in the pool, but were told the swimmers held pool memberships.

The Ross County NAACP reported a similar incident at the Gold Cliff pool last Friday.

Goldwater-backer Rep. John W. Byrnes of Wisconsin countered that the party should dispose of any extremism by meeting it "head on . . . with better ideas—with Republican principles," rather than any resolution which denies extremists the right to exist.

The climax came with the civil rights fight. Goldwater voted against the 1964 law on grounds it was unconstitutional.

Scranton's plank spoke of the federal government's "constitutional responsibility" to assure civil rights, called for "enforcement" of the 1964 law—the platform pledges for "full implementation and faithful execution"—and added a number of other provisions including a demand for first-step compliance within one year by schools which have not yet complied with the 1954 Supreme Court school desegregation decision.

The Scranton plan also proposed enforcement, for the first time in history, of the 14th Amendment penalty cutting a state's House representation in proportion to its denial of voting rights of qualified citizens.

Carlinio urged the delegates to adopt the plank so that the party "would not have to apologize for its heritage."

Former Nebraska Gov. Robert B. Crosby defended the existing plank as "a dignified, solid affirmation of the highest concepts of human equality."

Despite the spirited debate, there was little doubt from the moment the roll call began who had the votes. Also downed handily was a simpler civil rights amendment offered by Romney, promising "action at the state, local and private levels to eliminate discrimination."

FHA To Establish New Office Here

The Farmers Home Administration will establish a new office in Circleville to serve farmers and rural residents of Pickaway, Ross and Hocking Counties.

These counties were formerly served from London, Hillsboro, and New Lexington respectively.

In connection with opening the new office, plans are being formulated for an open house on July 22, James T. McDorman, state director of Farmers Home Administration, is planning to be present for this occasion. All persons who are interested are invited to attend.

Bruce G. Conner will be the county supervisor in charge of the new office. He is formerly from Cedarville where he operated a farm for six years.

CONNER is a graduate of Ohio State University where he majored in Agriculture Economics. He is currently living in Cambridge where he was assistant county supervisor.

Conner is married to the former Donna Lee Anderson of North Hampton. They have two children, Brian and David. The Conners are planning to move to Circleville in the next few days.

Maxine M. Andregg of Amanda, will be the full time clerk, and will be in the office Monday thru Friday of each week, from 8 a. m. to 11:45 a. m. and from 1:30 p. m. to 4:45 p. m. Mrs. Andregg formerly worked for the Farmers Home Administration in Logan, Marietta,

School Board Adopts Budget

The 1965 budget for Circleville City Schools was approved last night by the Board of Education during its regular monthly meeting with Superintendent Fritz Jacobs.

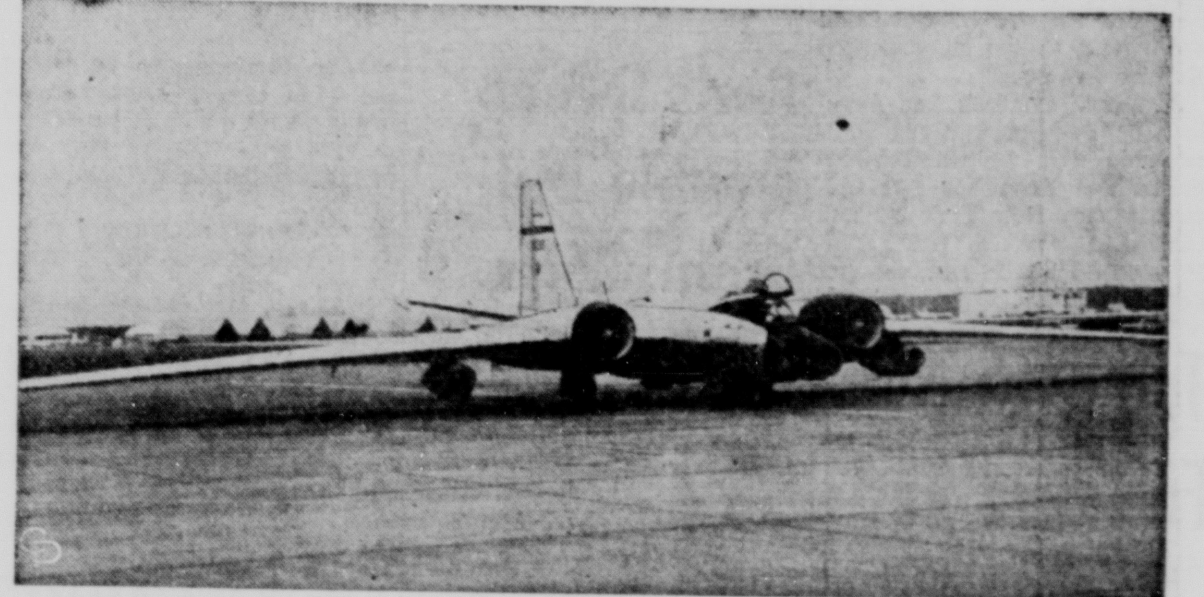

The gross figure to be used by schools next year is $1,069,150. However, Superintendent Jacobs pointed out, the net total is $955,610.

Deductions amounting to $113,540 are subtracted before the money is disbursed. The deductions include election costs, legal advertising, workmen's compensation, teacher and school employee retirement, tuition to other districts, state examiner fees and auditor and treasurer's fees.

In speaking of school funds, Jacobs said today that the school district realized $10,000 less this year in the first half personal property tax settlement. The first net general fund settlement in 1963 was $43,455.24 and the 1964 settlement was $32,718.76.

THE superintendent said several factors contributed to the decrease, including a state ruling which reduced the rate in some areas. The reduction has curtailed operating expenses to a minimum, he said.

THE newly approved budget lists $33,210 for administration.
